Stormy Legislative Session Ends in State of Confusion

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The wildest Missouri legislative session in many years ended a few minutes after midnight today, marked by confusion to the bitter end.

Before they quit, the lawmakers passed $57 million worth of tax speedup bills. Another, carrying $10 million, fell by the wayside in the House.

That is the money Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said all along would be essential to finance the record $1.3 billion budget for the fiscal year that started today.

In the final hour the Senate also completed action on a "must" school bill to increase the state aid formula by $35 million the first year and eventually in four years to bring state aid to a 50-50 share of operating costs.

To finance the first year, a $31 million cigarette tax was tied to the bill. It will increase the state tax on cigaretts from 4 to 9 cents a package as soon as the governor signs the bill into law.

How soon any money will be available for hard pressed schools is another question. The governor and many legislators predicted it would face a constitutionality test in the State Supreme Court because of procedures used in passing the bill.

The two big tax proposals of the six-month session went up in the smoke of last day conflict between the two houses. They would have increased corporate income taxes by about $30 million a year and individual taxes about $34 million.

The administration forces tried to the last to get the tax increases out of the House — Senate conference committee mud, but senators led by Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D—Hillsboro held out adamantly.

A $9 million increase in corporate franchise taxes also was killed in the Senate on the final day, while a $9.5 million proposed increase in wine and liquor taxes was throttled in the House by inaction.

In the frantic maneuvering, the House held the school aid—cigarette tax bill as long as it dared while the Senate used every stratagem to prevent conference committee action on the income tax bills.

The Senate, in turn, bottled up the tax collection speedup bills until the closing hours. Violating Senate traditions, Blackwell called them up even though Sen. T. D. McNeal, D—St. Louis, the Senate Ways and Means chairman, had been designated by the House sponsor, Rep. Harold Volkmer, D—Hannibal, as the man to handle the bills in the Senate.

Blackwell said he had no choice and charged administration forces were trying to create chaos to make the legislature look bad with nothing accomplished.

In the final hour there was plenty of chaos without any outside help.

The House adjourned at 11:40 p.m. after passing a bare bones capital improvements bill carrying only the $11.5 million the governor asked for originally for necessary repairs and replacements. There are no new buildings in the bill—a situation the governor deplored.

The House approved about $57.5 million for capital improvements earlier but that died.

Last year when no capital improvement bill was passed, the Governor called the legislature back in a fall special session. But he said today he had no plans for any immediate special session until he studies the effects of the regular session action and inaction.

The hectic windup left the final catchall or omnibus appropriation bill stranded. It carried about $4.3 million in the Senate version, compared with about $7 million in the bill passed by the House last week.

The catchall bill carried money to fund legislation passed this year, plus refunds and some items overlooked earlier.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D — Caruthersville, Senate appropriations chairman, said he doubted whether failure to pass the bill would make much difference because most of the bills do not go into effect until Oct. 13 and the legislature will be back for its off year budget session next January to take care of any emergencies.

A big question was whether failure to pass the omnibus bill would affect state welfare operations.

On the last day the legislature passed a broad welfare bill to comply with federal requirements on the plea that if it didn't pass the state might lose as much as $30 million in federal aid funds.

It also carried a number of increases in welfare grants, raising the maximum for old age assistance from $80 to $85 a month, for permanent and total disability from $75 to $80 and general relief from $65 to $70.

One cost of living increase for families getting aid to dependent children, required by the federal government, would add $959,000 to welfare costs. Altogether the federal requirements would cost an estimated $1,224,000.

Hearnes said he did not know what effect failure to pass the omnibus bill might have on welfare grants until the situation is studied by Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter.

Blackwell said he doubted there would be any affect because the legislature had shown its intention to comply with federal demands.

One of the big bills passed on the last night was a Congressional Redistricting measure designed to meet U.S. Supreme Court requirements that Missouri's 10 districts comply strictly to the one man-one vote formula.

Only one change was made in the version passed earlier by the Senate.

Howard and Cooper Counties were shifted from the 4th to the 8th Districts and Morgan and Moniteau were transferred from the 8th to the 4th.

This gives more Democratic votes to the 8th of Rep. Richard H. Ichord D—Houston. But Kansas City area senators who said they had talked with Rep. William Randall, D—Independence, reported he had no objections to picking up a few more Republican votes in Morgan and Moniteau Counties.

Passage of the bill, if it stands up, meant the legislature had succeeded in doing its own redistricting instead of setting up a bipartisan redistricting commission as the governor had requested.

In the midnight stretch run, the Senate also jammed through a broad constitutional amendment for judicial reform a revised version of the plan recommended by the Missouri Bar.

But another bar association bill to set up a system of public defenders to provide legal aid for indigents failed to beat the clock.

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D—Columbia, the majority leader, adjourned the Senate until July 10 when a technical session will be held.

Prince Charles Installed As Cheers, Bombs Echo

CAERNARVON, Wales (AP(— Charles of Windsor, the next king of Britain, was installed as Prince of Wales today amid the rousing cheers of thousands—and the echoes of bombs apparently set off by Welsh extremists demanding independence.

Queen Elizabeth II placed the coronet on her 20-year-old son's head in the court of ancient Caernarvon Castle, handed him the mantle, ring, gold rod, sword and letters patent of his noble rights.

Charles in turn swore allegiance to the crown he some day will wear and pledged fealty, understanding and support for the principality of Wales.

The medieval pageantry of heralds, knights, banners, trumpets, carriages, bards and Druids, choristers, officialdom and foreign guests was carried out in warm sunshine and gentle breeze.

The precision of the lavish pomp and circumstances carried on despite a series of extremist tries to disrupt the ceremony. Two men died for their efforts.

The royal train stopped three times on its way from London overnight because of bomb scares on railway trestles.

One bomb exploded near Caernarvon near where the royal train had stopped. Police milled about the area and witnesses said the explosion tore up a section of truck. But railroad authorities later said the truck was not damaged and the bomb had exploded on a nearby waste lot. Two youths were arrested.

Tricia Nixon, daughter of the President, was aboard a train which passed over the track before the bomb went off.

One young man threw an egg at the queen's carriage on her way to the castle. He was nearly lynched by the mob but was rescued by police. They were out in such force that any guess from 3,000 to 5,000 seemed to be close.

Earlier two Welshmen carrying explosives some distance from Caernarvon, but clearly for dangerous purposes, were caught in their own trap. They blew themselves up by accident.

Despite all this the royal family—the queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and above all Prince Charles himself—went through the tedious but highly impressive ceremony with aplomb, smiles, waves of the hand and traditional calm for which they all have been trained.

The town of 9,200 swelled to a quarter of a million for the first such ceremony in 58 years, demonstrated with rousing cheers. Interspersed boos were drowned out.

Charles appeared for the solemn ceremony, which was watched by television viewers around the world, after spending the night in a secret, heavily guarded location somewhere in northwest Wales.

Surrounded by nobles of the realm, Welsh leaders, foreign dignitaries and diplomats, Charles knelt in obeisance to his mother.

The heir to the throne then pledged:

"I, Charles, Prince of Wales, do become your liege man of life and limb and earthly worship, and faith and trust I will bear unto you to live and die against all manner of folks."

The queen then presented Charles to the people of Wales.

The town of Caernarvon with a population of only 9,200 swelled to a milling throng of a quarter of a million. The vast crowd waved a sea of Union Jacks, ignoring the Welsh nationalists.

$21,867 Grant Announced Today for Bootheel Area

The Office of Economic Opportunity approved a $21,867 grant for the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation in Portageville today, pending Governor Warren E. Hearnes' approval.

The four- month grant, benefitting about 850 people, is pro-rated for four months. Management staffing of programs available under the grant will begin this month, DAEOC Executive Director Charles Fleer said.

The program will provide housing development information to low-income families in the Bootheel area -- Dunklin, Stoddard, Scott, Mississippi, Pemiscot and New Madrid counties.

The OEO grant will finance the following projects, according to Fleer.

1-- It will assist in providing low- rate, federally insured land development loans.

2-- It will provide low- rate, federally insured construction loans.

3-- A training program for housing management and construction will be provided.

4-- Technical assistance in land development in planning, processing, designing and construction of residential housing will be provided.

5-- Researched information and development in scientific methods of construction of quality low- cost housing will be provided.

6-- It will provide access to private and federal "seed" money, money which is invested to attract more money.

The most immediate result of the grant, after the governor's approval and staffing operations begin, will be purchase of a site and construction of a building to house the programs executive staff, Fleer said.

Assault Charges Filed In Mississippi County

CHARLESTON -- Charges of assault with intent to kill have been filed against a Chicago Ill., Negro man and his wife and his wife's sister following reported attacks on Charleston police officers Sunday morning, Prosecuting Attorney Ron Ashby said today.

The prosecutor said former Charleston Negroes Flanella Hart Haslett and her husband, Wesley Hasslett, both of Chicago, and Flanella's sister Ruby Townsend, Charleston, have been charged with alledgedly instigating a minor riot and attacking officers Robert Smith, Jr., Bill Howard and Captain Cecil Boes when they attempted to stop the disturbance.

Ashby said Flanella used a bottle as a weapon; a knife and a bottle was reportedly found in Haslett's possession and Ruby Townsend was alledgedly carrying a knife.

Townsend is in Mississippi County Jail, but the Haslett's left the city before warrants could be served, Ashby said.

Additional damage to the E. C. Robinson Lumber Co., which has been set on fire following the Sunday riot, was reported last night by Officer Howard, who said rocks and bottles had been thrown through two windows in the front of the building.

Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons and Prosecutor Ashby said they were "continuing their investigation of suspected arson on the part of two Negroes, Willie Lee Jones and Herschel Henry Brown, who were arrested and jailed Sunday on suspicion of arson in the burning of the Robinson Lumber Co. and the Simpson warehouse, both located in the Negro section of town.

Simmons said he was "also continuing investigation" of the breakage of windows at six downtown stores that occured Sunday morning along with the theft of men's slacks from the Friedman Department Store -- where a broken door glass enabled them to gain entry.

Mercury Hits 100

If you were ducking into air-conditioned buildings and thinking of ice-cream floats yesterday, you had a right to -- the mercury hit 100 degrees in Sikeston yesterday, only nine degrees lower than the all- time high temperature here in 1930.

The last 100- degree June temperature recorded was in 1963, according to the official weather bureau. The ten-year average for June temperatures is 86.8, during which period the warmest June day was in 1960, a scorching 101 degrees.

$29,810 Training Grant Announced

A $29,810 federal grant has been provided to the Bootheel Economic Development Council for the purpose of hiring staff members to coordinate vocational opportunities in the Bootheel with people who need jobs and are capable of working.

The Noranda Corp., presently under construction at New Madrid, played a large role in getting the grant for the Bootheel area, Philip Shelton, research analyst, Bootheel Economic Development Council, aid today.

There is an effort to hire local people at the Noranda Corp. rather than going to St. Louis or Cape Girardeau to get workers, Shelton said.

There are plenty of people in the Bootheel area who need jobs, he said. With the help of the $29,810 grant, the people can be trained to work and it won't be necessary to go out of the Bootheel to get workers, Shelton said.

The grant will be used to place people in jobs at other places than the Noranda plant, but the coming existence of the Noranda,Corp., may have speeded the grant somewhat.

The grant was provided by the Economic Development Association in Washington, and the Missouri Association of Migrant Opportunities Services was the prime contractor in getting the grant for the Bootheel area.

City Marshall Hollis "Doc" Lindley is investigating.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
SUNLIT FIELDS

The sun lifts early in the east and travels a high arc across the sky. Slanting rays in the morning strike the mountains and hills, reach the upland pastures and then light the meadows. Sunlight is the dominant motif as the year reaches into summer.

Few appreciate the many shades of green as the full flush of foliage and grasses clothe the bones of earth. For an hour or two after dawn, and again in the late afternoon, one can see many hues that vary from dark to light. There are a few poignant minutes at each end of day when there are shades of gold blended with the soft greens.

Mornings are filled with bird songs. Mists lift from swales and swamps. It is an appealing picture as the elms in the river valleys begin to emerge from the meringue of fog that hovers along the streams.

Go to a sunlit meadow in mid-morning where the flowers paint a picture, and you can hear the urgent, plusing hum of bees and insects as they harvest life-essential nectar.

Warm sun broods over the fields like a benediction. The warmth is part of nature's inscrutable process that guarantees continuance of life for men and animals. There are miracles in this world that man cannot understand. He searches the depth of the seas and explores unknown frontiers in space. But sunlight on earth's fields is basic for man's happiness.

THE FOURTH AND THE FLAG

Its red for love, and its white for law;
And its blue for the hope that our fathers saw,
Of a larger liberty. -- Unknown, THE AMERICAN FLAG

The fourth of July, the national holiday, celebrates the formal adoption of the Declaration of Independence, not the beginning of the war for freedom from England nor the first commitment to independence. On July 4, 1776, amounted to formal adoption of the sense of the resolution for independence approved by the Second Continenal Congress two days before.

On the preceding June 7 Richard Henry Lee, for Virginia, had moved that "these united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states." After some debate, further action was postponed to July 1, so that some delegations could get instructions from back home. John Adams wrote from Philadelphia to his good wife Abigail at Braintree, Mass., that it was July 2 that ought to be "commemorated as the Day of Deliverance."

The delay in voting on independence proves how slowly, how reluctantly, the colonists came around to the idea. Lecky, the English historian, called the American Revolution "the work of an energetic minority." As recounted by Charles and Mary Beard, "(Even) after the war had been going for a year, an advocate of independence was regarded as a dangerous person, and was likely to be greeted with angry glances in the streets of Philadelphia."

Old Glory was probably so named when Capt. William Driver, who had just been appointed master of a new ship at Salem, Mass., cried as the flag was run up to the masthead, "There it is -- Old Glory." The meaning of the stars and stripes has been parsed in many ways, probably never more memorably than by President Woodrow Wilson in an address of May 17, 1915. Said Wilson:

"The lines of red are lines or blood, nobly and unselfishly shed by men who loved the liberty of their fellowmen more than they loved their own lives and fortunes. God forbid that we should have to use the blood of America to freshen the color of the flag. But if it ever should be necessary, that flag will be colored once more, and in being colored will be glorified and purified."

The subject of the flag and its uses becomes especially sensitive in time of war. A bill making desecration of the American flag a crime cleared the House by a 385-16 roll-call vote on June 20.

The bill resulted from the anger evoked by a recent rash of flag burnings by Viet Name protestors. Through a parliamentary quirk, the key word, "burning," was left out of the bill.

The House measure would make it a federal crime, punishable by a $1,000 fine and/or a year in jail, to cast "contempt" upon the flag by "publicly mutilating, defacing, defiling, or trampling upon it."

Existing law in 50 states makes mutilating an American flag illegal, with penalities ranging from none in New Hampshire to 25 years imprisonment in Texas. The American Civil Liberties Union strongly opposes a federal measure, and some congressmen believed the matter best left to the states.

But debate in the House lasted five hours, with member after member going to the microphone to read patriotic poetry. Earlier, Rep. James H. Quillen (R Tenn.) had said: "Anything short of a firing squad is all right with me." The dissidents assembled in Philadelphia 191 years ago probably would not have been so emphatic.

A GREAT PUT-DOWN

The "put-down" has become one of our most popular forms of insult. Throughout history, deflating detractors or the pompour has been applauded and the anecdotes have been repeated and recorded.

One of the most famous has been described by the Encyclopaedia Britannica as "apocyphal"; that is, of doubtful origin. Perhaps because it is such an effective piece of defiance, we prefer to believe that it is true.

Diogenes, the 4th century founder of the sect of Cynics, was sitting on the ground one day when the conqueror, Alexander the Great, confronted him and offered to grant a request. Diogenes replied, "Stand aside. You are blocking the sun." A great image deflater indeed.

The late Winston Churchill was master of the put-down. He punctured socialism in fine style with this comment: "It is a socialist idea that making profits is a vice; I consider the real vice is making losses."

A more recent example of the put-down involved Gov. Louis Nunn of Kentucky. Some Kentucky horse breeders had given a $70,000 thoroughbred to the Republican governors. Another faction, to show their resentment of the gift, gave the governors a $70 mule named Hope.

In accepting the "gift," the governor made the following brief speech: "When I look at the face of this mule, a somewhat sad, forlorn animal, I shall think of the sadness that dwells in the faces and within the hearts of the poor people of our state. When I look at the back of this mule, I think of the tremendous burden of responsiblity we bear for these people . . . And as this mule walks away and I see his rear quarters, I shall always be mindful of the conduct and behavior of some of those who made this presentation."

ON MINE SAFETY

There are currently several mine safety bills being considered by the U.S. Senate that would eliminate a major distinction of the Federal Coal Mine Safety Act. The distinction under threat of elimination is between gassy and non-gassy mines.

A non-gassy mine is one containing less than 25/100ths of one- per cent methane gas. This amount is not considered dangerous enough to require all of the expensive permissible mining equipment necessary to prevent gas ignition. This is because the explosive limits of methane require a concentration of from five to 15 per cent.

If a non- gassy mine is found to exceed the very low limits noted, it is reclassified as "gassy" and will never again be reclassified, this being an added safety measure of the mine safety codes.

The removal of the distinction between the two types of mines would work in the reverse of the aims of the advocates of change. It could very easily increase the incidence of mine tragedies. This would be caused by the elimination of the non- gassy mines due to increased costs of operation. This would shift production, currently undertaken by them, to the gassy mines and this increase could cause increased hazards.

Kentucky's Senator John Sherman Cooper listed the mine safety records in the Congressional Record to show the reasons for his opposition to the change. The senator pointed to the statistics proving that the added expense of the new equipment would not appreciably add to mine safety.

The senator said: "But I do ask that the difference in classification as between gassy and nongassy mines remain, because it is based upon soun premises, upon differences in characteristics, topography, and geological considerations, and chiefly because there is no gas in a nongassy mine."

The Coal Industry Committee on Coal Mine Safety, representing the non-gassy mines, makes the following statement: "It would be ironic as well as a tragedy if, in the name of mine safety, Congress enacted legislation that would have absolutely no favorable relationship to safety and cause serious economic depression in a wide area of the country." We agree.

Long ago Ecclesiastes the preacher said:

"All things are full of weariness; man cannot utter it; the eye is not satisfied with seeing nor the ear filled with hearing."

Tom Paine exclaimed that "these are the times that try men's souls," and David Mallet asked:

"Are afflictions aught
But blessings in disguise?"
Don't answer Mallet's question.

The old bull's active days were over, but the kindly farmer permitted him to stay on in the pasture with the cows. Of course, the farmer also turned a young bull loose in the field and the newcomer went to work immediaiately. Seeing this, the oldd bull began snorting and pawing the ground with his hoof.

"You're wasting your time," said the farmer.

"You're too old for that sort of thing now."

"I know," said the bull, "but I can show him I'm not a cow, can't I?"

Stan the super salesman was checking receipts in his book while training to Toledo for a pow-pow with the Ohio branch office. The passenger sitting beside him eventually drew him into conversation.

Then the man said: "Ever been at the Hop-Right-Inn Motel in Toledo?"

"I had the funniest dream last night," said one. "I dreamed that a thousand little men were dancing on top of my body. They had pink caps and green suits and funny red boots that curled up in front."

"Yes," said the other. "And there was a tinkly little bell on the toe of each of the boots."

"How do you know that?" the first reveler said in surprise.

A HEAD WAITER is rarely jealous of a movie actor, and a movie actor is not jealous of a concert violinist. A concert violinist is not jealcus of a stock broker or of a scientist.

Jealousy directs itself toward those who are doing what we are trying to do, and doing it a little better, or threatening to do it better.

Neighborhood jealousies are easily generated, because most neighborhoods are made up of people who enjoy or pretend to enjoy approximately the same incomes. In such a group, some people inevitably develop a competitive spirit. Evidence of prosperity in the form of a fresh coat of paint on the house, a new automobile or a new gown, may cause envy among watchful neighbors if the rivalry is keen.

But if one family in the neighborhood, by a stroke of fortune, gets definitely above the standard of the others, the jealous of the prosperity of this family will subside, because of the tacit recognition hat the contest is now hopeless.

NEW YORK (AP) — Items from a space age newspaper in the year 2969:

New York — The insertion of a new spinal column into Roscoe J. Withers, 23rd, today on his 812th birthday made him the universe's champion receiver of human transplants with a total of 56 parts.

Here is a breakdown of his transplants: 9 hearts, 17 kidneys, 4 spinal columns, 16 livers, 8 brains and 2 ears.

"I hardly know who I am anymore," joked Withers, who sat up and began taking bending exercises immediately after the operation.

Sea of Tranquility, the Moon —The massive escape attempt by 3,869,512 convicts from this satellite's third largest prison was reported under control early today.

Some two million had surrendered. Guards reported that another million who tried to make a last-ditch stand in a series of nearby craters had been exterminated by aerial x-ray attack and added confidently:

"The rest will be rounded up shortly."

All of the fugitive convicts were desperate life-termers, each of whom had already been imprisoned here for 200 years or more.

Capital City, Saturn—John F. Nixon McKinley Roosevelt, 14th, hereditary ruler of the universe, announced today that the solar system's projected $897-octillion budget for the year 2970 had been cut by $35 octillion.

"We must cut every corner and tighten our belts," he said in a message to the Universal Congress, "in order to avoid a disastrous inflation."

Boston, Mass. — A convention of educators at Harvard University expressed alarm today at what they called "a growing tendency" among youths under the age of 200 to quit school.

"These dropouts already constitute a threat to an ordered society," a statement they adopted unanimously said.

"In the world of the future any young man or woman who abandons the classroom before the age of 200 to 250 will find himself as a misfit inadequately prepared to hold a responsible job."

Canal City, Mars—Authorities here quietly announced settlement of the long strike by the Interplanetary Federation of Sanitation Workers that has left the solar system littered with debris for the last 45 years.

Although terms of the compact were not disclosed, it was believed each of the 125 million sanitation workers received a $57 million wage hike. Their work week will be cut to five hours and they they will be given seven-month vacations.

Atlantic City, N.J.—A willowy lass from the planet Uranus triumphed over other finalists tonight to become beauty queen of the solar system.

"This is all so unexpected," gasped Miss Uranus. Her three bright blue eyes filled with tears as she received her crown.

The first bald-headed girl in history to win the contest, Miss Uranus is only 75 years old. She is 18 feet tall and she has an 25inch bust, a 47-inch waist, and 82-inch hips.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson say: State Department flirts with Fidel; Castro cracks down on hijackers; Nixon leaders bungled surtax flight

WASHINGTON--An unpublicized but secret romance has been taking place between Fidel Castro and the State Department. It hasn't blossomed into anything near matrimony as yet, but relations between the United States and Cuba have improved so much that there's speculation among Latin American diplomats that the two countries will resume relations in a year or so.

One evidence has been Fidel Castro's cooperation in regard to hijacking. Negotiations regarding hijacking are conducted through the Swiss embassy in Havana and have resulted in, first, an immediate release of American planes flown to Cuba; and second, the jailing of hijackers.

One hijacker, an American negro, Raymond Johnson, who described himself as a black panther lieutenant, complained bitterly that he had been jailed for 21 days. He also complained that other hijackers had been jailed and later sent to work camps in the interior.

Second indication of better American-Cuban understanding has been the position of the State Department in regard to the admission of Jamaica into the organization of American states. Jamaica maintains consulates in Cuba. Hitherto no members of the OAS except for Mexico have been permitted to maintain either consulates or diplomatic ties with Cuba.

During closed-door discussions over this problem, the United States has taken the lead in defending Jamaica's right to continue its consulates, while several other Latin-American countries, led by Bolivia, have been opposed.

Meanwhile, Fidel Castro has made public statements that the economic and cultural ties between Cuba and the United States have been so important in the past that Cuba must resume relations with the United States and would be willing to pay for the American property seized by his regime. Castro has even made this statement in Moscow. Russian diplomats have also told the United States frankly that they would be delighted to end their economic commitment to Cuba which is costing them around $1 million a week.

Chief deterrent to the resumption of U.S.-Cuban relations in the past has been Castro's fomenting of revolution in neighboring countries. Recently, however, there has been no evidence of Cuban guerrillas in nearby Caribbean countries.

The Anti-American sentiment stirred up during Gpvov. Rockefeller's trip has been raced to local student organizations and leftwing labor groups aroused partly over President Nixon's criticism of Latin-American universities and partly reacting to the deliberate anti-American program waged by the Peruvian military. The Peruvians have been more effective in poisoning public opinion against the United States than Fidel Castro ever was.

-Surtax Jockeying--

The Snafu over extending the ten per cent surtax resulted from two factors:

1. A grass roots groundswell against the surtax unless accompanieby drastic tax reform.

2. Bad bungling by Nixon leaders on Capitol Hill.

Regarding the latter, the White House had claimed that it had the votes to continue the ten per cent surtax. The estimate was based upon a nose count by GOP leaders which suddenly was found to be inaccurate. So the White House suddenly postponed a vote until the last day of the fiscal year--yesterday--in order to give time to twist arms and influence votes.

More important than this jockeying, however, is the fact that both democratic and Republican congressmen have been deluged with mail demanding basic tax reforms which were ignored in the surtax extension bill. Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, a member of the tax-writing ways and means committee, summed it up at the rules committee hearing:

"We have been dealing with little kittens while the fat cats are still roaming around the neighborhood. We still don't have a tax reform program affecting every major loophole."

Rep. Lloyd Meeds, the Washington State Democrat, put it another way:

"Every day I receive letters asking why our taxes should be increased while the big corporations and the millionaires are getting special treatment because of loopholes."

Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., also spoke out bluntly as the ways land means group was preparing to report the administration's surtax extension bill behind closed doors.

"We have never taken a roll call vote in this committee on needed tax reforms," she complained. "Nor do we have any real assurances or indications that the committee will act on tax reforms."

The nine committee Democrats who voted "no" behind closed doors were: Vanik, Mrs. Griffiths, Reps. Al Ullman, Ore., Phil Landrum, Ga., Richard Fulton, Tenn., Jacob Gilbert, N.Y., James Corman, Calif., William Green, Pa., and Sam Gibbons, Fla.

The 16 who voted for reporting the surtax extension bill were Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., who said he would oppose the bill on the floor, and Democrats Wilbur Mills, Ark., the chairman, Hale Boggs, La., John Watts, Ky., James Burke, Mass., and Omar Burleson, Tex.

Also, Republicans John Byrnes, Wis., James Utt, Calif., Jackson Betts, Ohio, Herman Schneebeli, Pa., Harold Collier, Ill., Joel Broyhill, Va., Barber Conable, N.Y., George Bush, Tex., Rogers Morton, Md., and Charles Chamberlain, Mich.

Former First Lady's Spending Habits

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy, who once ridiculed reports that she spent $30,000 a year on clothes, actually spent just over $40,000 on clothes in 1961, says her former personal secretary.

Mrs. Kennedy's passion for clothes and battles with the family budget when she was First Lady are among the topics covered by Mary Barelli Gallagher in her book, "My Life with Jacqueline Kennedy."

"It always amazed me," Mrs. Gallagher writes in an excerpt in the current Ladies Home Journal, "that Jackie spent more in a year on family expenses than the President's salary of $100,000."

In 1962, she writes, Mrs. Kennedy spent $121,461.61 on family expenses and President John F. Kennedy called in a family friend and financial adviser to straighten out the family bookkeeping.

The ensuing economy move led Mrs. Kennedy, now Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, to order the White House staff to restrict guests at official functions to two cocktails apiece, Mrs. Gallagher writes.

Mrs. Gallagher recalls that during the 1960 presidential campaign when a story broke "that Jackie was spending $30,000 a year for her clothes, she retorted, 'I would have to wear sable underwear to spend that much'."

Ann Landers

Neighbor's Son Needs Training

Dear Ann Landers: The people next door bought a puppy for their three-year-old son. The puppy is so small you can hold it in the palm of your hand.

The kid is torturing that helpless animal. He drags it around on a string and I'm afraid he'll break its little neck. I've seen the boy squeeze the puppy and drop him on his head. When the puppy cries, it really tears me up.

I think it is terrible for parents to give a small child a pet before he knows how to take care of it. This little kid doesn't know the difference between a live animal and the stuffed toys he's been playing with.

I pleaded with mom to call the Humane Society but she doesn't want any trouble with the neighbors. When I said I'd call she yelled, "Don't you dare."

I can't go against my mother's word, but I am sick of seeing that puppy tortured. Please tell me what to do. -- Pat. G.

Dear Pat: Go to the neighbors and tell them what you told me. Sometimes adults can learn from children, and this is one of those times. The parents need to have this situation brought to their attention and I'm sure you're the person who can do it. Good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: I have accepted an engagement ring from a wonderful young man. We decided to marry before he goes into the service.

I get a little sick inside when I think of Hugh meeting some of my relatives I have a couple of aunts and uncles who don't know how to dress. Also, their table manners are appalling and their grammar is atrocious. They say such things as "Hain't you seen it before?" They talk too loud and laugh like hyenas. I hate for Hugh and his family to meet these slobs but I must invite them. Is there something I can say to prepare Hugh and his people for these offensive boors? -- Dreading It

Dear Dread: Offensiveness must run in your family. Your sound like a social-climbing little creep to me.

So what if your relatives aren't up on how to dress, and their table manners and grammar leave something to be desired? They're your relatives and you should make no apologies for them. Get wise to yourself before Hugh has to make apologies for YOU, Kiddo.

Dear Ann Landers: I've heard it said that when a marriage goes on the rocks the rocks are usually in the mattress. I don't want this to happen to me. I am being married soon to a wonderful man. I have had no sex experience to speak of and I'm scared to death I will be a great disappointment. How can a woman be a good sex partner if she has had no experience? They say practice makes perfect. I want to be perfect but I don't want to practice -- in advance, that is. Please help me. -- Lily

Dear Lil: Practice does not necessarily make perfect -- when it comes to sex, that is. Sometimes it just makes people tired. Don't worry about technique, Doll. Let your instincts guide you. If you and your finance are really in love you can develop the technique later.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Nor Are The Teachers Idle This Summer!

BY SUSAN SHEMWELL
Feature Writer

Sikeston High School is in summer recess, but many Sikeston teachers have not faded into the book shelves to reappear in September waving red pencils and class roll books. When the last 3:30 bell was ringing, many of them were thinking about vacation plans, college graduate work and home repairs. Some of the most active teachers during the nine month school year have not slowed their momentum during the summer months.

"Our son wants to see the Indians." Mrs. H. G. Tenkhoff, art teacher, said. She and her family plan to travel to Yellowstone National Park and camp along the way in an Apache trailer. "Boots" Tenkhoff, her husband and three children are afraid of bears and will park their camper in Montana towns when they reach the wild country.

The wild country is not for Mrs. Tim Garner, SHS secretarial training teacher. She is working on her master's degree driving to Cape Girardeau daily to study two University of Missouri extention courses.

Murray Sullivan, a biology teacher, was thinking about fishing while he was earning this year's Jaycee Outstanding Young Educator award. "My wife keeps me pretty busy putting up shelves for school-books and refinishing furniture," he said. But, when the chores are finished, he plans to take his fishing boat and 14 foot runabout to Chute Number Seven near Hickman Ferry on the Mississippi River. When Sullivan has harvested all of the tomatoes from his "token" garden, he will probably be found around a lake near the Ohio River, or at Brewer's Lake near Charleston.

Mrs. Wilma Young, home economics teacher, has not stopped seeing students every day. She has been visiting the girls in her classes for the last two weeks supervising their home projects. Refinishing furniture, painting, redecorating, child development and food projects are all on Mrs. Young's students' programs. After attending a Missouri home economics meeting Aug. 11-15, Mrs. Young plans to visit a brother in Mississippi whom she hasn't been for 10 years.

Travel makes Richard Powell, music teacher and band director, tune in. He is now repairing band and orchestra instruments in an attic reached by a fire escape on the side of his downtown Music Mart. As he trims cork horn liners and repairs about 450 instruments this summer, Powell is looking forward to a two- boat trip from St. Louis to New Orleans late in August.

Coach N. P. McDaniel, new SETA president, is out of town already. The American Legion Baseball team tht he manages this summer after he finishes teaching driver's education in the mornings, will probably miss him while he is a local delegate to the Philadelphia Teacher's Association this week.

"If I can get two free weeks to work on my stamp collection, I'll be happy." Fred Huff, SHS librarian, said. He is now working with three helpers cataloging about 1200 new library books and processing 100 new text books for the fall semester, and does not expect to get to the stamps for several weeks.

Gene Dawson, American history teacher and SHS golf coach, prefers the out-of-doors for his summer work. He manages the Sikeston Country Club Pro Shop with his wife and before they take their cosmetology exams in Jefferson City, Adams plans to go camping with his wife and four children in a trailer complete with a stove and sleeping space for eight people.

These teachers are filling their summers with experiences that will help them in the fall, when the school term begins. They are organizing their house-holds, taking time to relax and getting a vigorous start on classwork again.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice to Consumers of Certain Broad Spectrum Antibiotics

The State of Missouri, through its Attorney General, John C. Danforth, has pending a legal action in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York against certain drug companies (Chas. Pfizer & Co., Inc., American Cyanamid Company, Bristol-Myers Company, Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation (Squibb) and The Upjohn Company) alleging that those companies violated the antitrust laws in the sale of certain of their broad spectrum antibiotic products within the period 1954-1966. On May 26, 1969, the Court determined that the Attorney General was the proper representative of a statewide class which included all members of the public who purchased the Aureomycin, Terramycin and tetracycline products[1] of those companies in the State during the stated period.

The companies, while denying liability, have made a nationwide offer of 100 million dollars in settlement of all claims that any State or local governmental entity, drug wholesaler, retail pharmacist or member of the consuming public within the United States or Puerto Rico might have against them arising from purchases of broad spectrum antibiotic products during the stated period. On behalf of the State and the governmental entities and consuming public within the State, your Attorney General has elected to participate in that settlement subject to the establishment of appropriate allocations of this fund under supervision of the Court.

Now, therefore, take notice:

1. If you have purchased any of these drugs within the period 1954-1966:

a) The Court will exclude you from the class represented by the Attorney General if you request exclusion in writing addressed to the undersigned at P.O. Box 727, Bronx, New York 10451, and postmarked not later than August 1, 1969. If you elect to be excluded from the class, you will be free to pursue on your own behalf whatever legal rights you may have.

b) If you do not request exclusion from the class by August 1, 1969, you will be included in such class and any judgment, whether favorable or not, including any judgment approving any settlement of this action, will be binding upon you.

2. If you do not request exclusion from the class by August 1, 1969:

a) You may make a claim to receive directly a share as approved by the Court of any funds received by the Attorney General as representative of the members of the consuming public within the State. In order to make such a claim you must file with the undersigned at P.O. Box 727, Bronx, New York 10451[2] by August 16, 1969, either a verified statement or a statement certified by your local pharmacist or other supplier showing by year the total dollar amount of the Aureomycin, Terramycin and tetracycline products purchased by you; the name of each such product and the name and address of the pharmacy or other place where each such product was purchased;[3] and if you have been reimbursed on account of such purchases, by whom and how much. Your statement must include your residence or post office address and you may later be required to produce written proof of your purchases; or

b) If you do not make an individual claim by August 16, 1969, that will constitute an authorization to the Attorney General to utilize whatever money he may recover as your representative for the benefit of the citizens of your State in such manner as the Court may direct.

3. If you do not request exclusion from the class but prefer in connection with your individual claim to be represented by your own counsel rather than by the Attorney General, you may enter an appearance through your counsel but not later than August 1, 1969.

Clerk of the United States District Court
Southern District of New York
P.O. Box 727, Bronx, N.Y. 10451

[1]Tetracycline products are sold under the following names among others: Achromycin, Mysteclin, Panalba, Panmycin, Polycycline, Steclin, Tetracyn and Tetrex.

[2]If you reside outside the State, send your claim to P.O. Box 752, Bronx, New York 10451.

[3]The Attorney General of your State will forward claims on account of purchases made outside the State to the Attorneys General of the states in which such purchases were made, provided such states are participating in the settlement.

Post Wins

By DALE A. LEWIS

In Fastpitch Softball action yesterday, First National Bank jumped on Cooney Equipment for three runs in the first inning and went on to a 6-4 win.

Cooney had opened the game with a single tally in the top half of the inning without the benefit of a base hit. First National put together two triples, a double, and a single in their half to take a lead they never relinquished.

A single tally in the second inning and two more in the fourth wrapped up the ballgame for the bank, while Cooney picked up singles on the fourth, fifth, and seventh innings.

For First National, it was P. Ledbetter, L. Cooper, D. White, and K. Plunk providing the key blows with two triples, three doubles, and a single among them. B. Headlee also contributed an RBI single.

Cooney could manage only six hits off First National's Dean Riley, with only two of them going for extra bases. R. Holder lined a triple to center in the fifth and J. Long doubled to left in the seventh. With last night's victory, First National moved back into a first place tie with Budweiser for the Capitol Division lead.

In yesterday's night-cap, the Bank of Sikeston unveiled another new pitcher and before Presley Travel Trailers could solve his curveball, they had absorbed a 9 to 4 shellacking.

Bud Bain, putting on his red uniform for the first time last night, held Preseley scoreless the first five innings. Allowing only three singles and one base on balls.

Mealwhile, the Bank of Sikeston was putting together five doubles, a triple, and four singles for an 8 to nothing lead going into the sixth.

Apparently tiring in the last innings, Bain gave Preseley two runs in both the sixth and seventh innings, while his team-mates added one more for themselves and the final 9 to 4 victory. J. Burden, J, Sherry, L. Burden, D. Garner, D. Kern, and L. Harshberger produced the run - scoring hits for the Bank of Sikeston. J. Shuffit, R. Blackman, and B. Blair accounted for the Presley scoring

Fast Pitch Softball action resumes Wednesday night at 7 p.m. with Sikeston Light and Water hosting First National Bank and in the 8:30 contest, it's Budweiser greeting Cooney Equipment.

MISSOURI'S BULLFROGGERS are in their element now, cruising the lakes and marshes after the tasty frogs. Bullfrogs are legal from sunset June 30 to midnight Nov. 30. Daily and possession limit is eight. Legal methods include hand, handnet, gig, longbow, hook and line, rimfire or pellet guns by possessors of either a hunting or fishing license. The Dirty Seven

The movies have given us "The Dirty Dozen" and "The Magnificent Seven" and "Twelve Angry Men," but now scientists are talking about "The Dirty Seven."

They don't come from Hollywood, these unsavory seven. They come from cans and bottles and they could be killing us all. They are the so-called "hard" pesticides being used all across the nation today.

They are called "hard" pesticides because they are persistent -- their poisonous effects last and last, their chemical composition doesn't break down for long periods of time. They tend to build up residues in the fatty portions of animals and birds.

Their names are DDT, Lindane, Dieldrin, Aldrin, Endrin, Chlordane and Heptachlor. Some may take as long as 20 years to break down. Some of the first warnings against DDT came out long enough ago that the DDT sprayed then is just about breaking down now.

But there have been further tons of the deadly stuff sprayed since then and some agencies still advocate using it, though there are safe; chemical sprays available.

Dr. James Whitley of the Department of Conservation recommends that pesticides be used only when necessary rather than on a routine basis, since the use of any pesticide is often accompanied by undesirable side effects of some sort.

Biological control of many pests is possible and deserve wider application. Organic phosphate insecticide or carbamate can be used safely in many cases if they are selected specifically for the particular application. These materials decompose rapidly and normally do not pose long term hazards to the total environment.

The Department of Conservation primarily is concerned with the effect pesticides have on the state's animals, fish and birds, but, being people too, Department scientists also wonder about the effects on human beings.

There are suspicions, backed by scientific data, that pesticide residues in humans can cause disease, such as cancer, could lead to genetic change or could have a long term effect on certain organs of the body.

In birds of prey, such as the bald eagle, DDT concentrations in the fish they eat either can kill the bird outright or affect its ability to produce calcium for eggshells. There has been one egg found with no shell at all. Eagle populations are dwindling, along with numbers of other fish eating birds such as the peregrine falcon.

Slowly, but surely, here are bans being imposed on the use of various pesticides. Arizona and Michigan have imposed bans on DDT and Wisconsin is trying for one.

The United States Department of Agriculture has cancelled federal registration of lindane insecticide products in vaporizing devices because of "undue risk to the health of persons chronically exposed to the vapors."

Bertrand, Parma Post Babe Ruth Wins

Parma's 6-4 victory over Vanduser last night threw the leadership of the Four-County Babe Ruth League into a three-way tie between Bertrand, Vanduser and Parma.

Bertrand remained in contention for the leadership with a 6-0 win at Bell City last night.

Seemingly dry earth conceals more fresh water than there is in all the nation's rivers, ponds, reservoirs and lakes, including the Great Lakes.

KC's Post Win At East Prairie

CHARLESTON — The Knights of Columbus Little League baseball team posted a 13-10 win over McMikle here last night after which Ford Impliment its Babe Ruth game won by forfeit as French Impliments players failed to show.

John Trousdale pitched a five hitter, striking out 12 for the victory. Kevin Rolwing was the loser, allowing eight hits and fanning nine.

Dale Morgan homered for the winners while teammate Danny Marshall singled, doubled and tripled.

David Weakley homered and tripled for McMikle, driving in four runs.

Three Little League games are scheduled tonight with Ponder and Lions set in the 6 p.m. opener at A. D.Simpson Park. The V.F.W. team meets Waggernerat 7:30 p.m. and the Jaycees face Kiwanis at 9 p.m.

Larry Green collected the victory, allowing five hits, two to losing hurler, Steve Tropf.

Mike Crosno tripled in two runs and had two of Bertrand's seven hits.

Jeff Jackson pitched a three hitter, allowing all three safties in the first three innings, as Parma ran its record to 6-2.

Both teams scored three runs in the third frame, Parma on four hits and Vanduser on two. Parma added its fourth run in the fourth inning and held Vanduser scoreless until the sixth when it pushed a run across on three Parma errors.

Parma's winning tallies came to the sixth when it sent two runs across.

Wendall Wagner had three RBI's for the game, going two for four at the plate. Both were doubles and came in the third and sixth innings with two runners on.

Doyle Crews had two hits for the winners.

League play continues July 7 with Parma scheduled at Bell City and Vanduser at Bertrand.

Cards Continue Skid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Happy days are here again for the fledgling Kansas City Royals, but the slumping St. Louis Cardinals still can't find the winning combination.

The Royals notched their fourth victory in five games and climbed to within one game of fourth - place Chicago in the American League's West Division with a 2-1 victory over the California Angels.

Kansas City did it with a twoout, last-of-the-ninth home run off the bat of Lou Piniella. It was the 15th time this season the Royals have won a game in their last time at bat.

Meanwhile, the Cardinals surrendered six runs to the New York Mets in the first inning and went on to a 10-2 defeat in Busch Stadium. It was St. Louis' fourth straight loss and dropped the Cards six games below .500.

Piniella belted a 3-2 pitch from Rudy May 350 feet over the left field fence to hand the Royals their victory.

Kansas City had scored in the fourth on singles by Mike Fiore and Bob Oliver, plus Piniella's sacrifice fly, but California tied it in the seventh on Jay Johnstone's double and Rick Reichard't's single.

The game was delayed 35 minutes by rain between the fifth and sixth.

Moe Drabowsky pitched the ninth inning in relief of Roger Nelson and got the victory, making his record 6-5.

Jerry Grote slammed a threerun homer to cap the Mets' sixrun outburst against the Cardinals in the first inning.

New York had already touched starter Nelson Briles for three runs, then Grote greeted reliever Ray Washburn with his homer.

Jim McAndrews shook off home runs by Joe Torre and Dal Maxvill to three - hit he Cards.

Vic Davalillo, erstwhile American League outfielder with Cleveland and California, tried his hand at pitching in the ninth inning for St. Louis.

His mound debut was not impressive. He gave up a walk to Tommie Agee and single to Bobby Pfeil before being replaced.

Both the Royals and Cardinals entertain the same foes tonight.

One Hitter Booked For Harts Bread

Francis recorded a one-hitter to no avail in Babe Ruth play last night as Anchor Toy was still able to overcome Hart's by a margin of 7-1.

Breedlove became the winning pitcher as he allowed four hits. Only extra base hit of the battle was a double by Walker.

Remaining contest at VFW stadium saw Home Materials edge Reiss Dairy 5-4. This was another low-hitting battle as Home Materials collected only three hits and Reiss Dairy came up with five.

Mitchel received the win from the mound and Collins suffered the loss.

Farm Tours Next Week

A field day at the Delta Center in Portageville will be at 9 a.m. July 9, to demonstrate vegetable production on Missouri REsearch farms during the first year of the Bootheel Economic Development Council's program to attract a vegetable processing plant in Southeast Missouri.

Several vegetable processing firms are expected to send representatives to tour plots which include about 100 varieties of tomatoes, varieties of processing and fresh marketing types of cucumbers, string beans and carrots. There will be tours of Wendell Choate Farms, Dorena, sweet corn now being harvested.

Dr. Victor Lambeth, University of Missouri horticulturist, Henry Dicarlo, Bootheel area horticulturist and Ted Hull, Bootheel Economic Development Council vegetable consultant will speak at a briefing before the hours.

The three to five-year research program began this spring with Hull contacting 36 vegetable processing firms, and is continuing this summer with efforts to demonstrate Semo's ability to produce quantity and quality of processable vegetables, J. B. Martin, Bootheel Economic Development Council director, said.

"The result the development council wants from this program is to have a processing plant like Del Monte or Green Giant in this area." Martin said.

CONSTRUCTION OF A FORCE MAIN is underway at West Malone and Ingram Road and will be extended south to the sewage treatment plant. The project should be completed within two months.

Ronald Slayton

Slain Soldier Receives Medals

The late Spec. 4 Ronald D. Slayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Slayton, 1514 East Gladys St., has been awarded, posthumously, the Air Medal (First through Fifth Oak Leaf Clusters, Fifth Oak Leaf Cluster for heroism) and the Purple Heart.

The Air Medal was awarded for "exceptionally valorous actions on Jan. 15, 1969, while serving as door gunner of a helicopter carrying U.S. Marine Corps commanders engaged in directing their elements in a fierce battle.

"He courageously returned the enemy fire while the helicopter was being flown dangerously low to afford the commanders a better vantage point from which to direct their men."

Spec. 4 Slayton was killed Jan. 15.

His parents and his brother, Jerry Clayton, Memphis, Tenn., received these awards May 23, in Fort Leonard Wood.

Prior to his death, Spec. 4 Slayton was awarded the Air Medal, National Defense Service Medal, Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Ribbon and the Expert Badge with rifle bar.

Spec. 4 Slayton had been in Vietnam since March, 1968.

One commissioner said the shield would save money by speeding up trials and hearings.

Senate Defeats Earnings Tax

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Senate Monday defeated a bill that would have let all cities over 2,000 population enact an earnings tax.

The 15-10 vote against the measure reflected oppositon by metropolitan area legislators who said it would not have given cities bordering on the larger cities any appreciable income.

It was originally intended only for certain cities, the sponsor said, specifically excluding those municipalities bordering on metropolitan areas.

An amendment was adopted, however, to let any city from 2,000 to 450,000 population enact an earnings tax of ½ of 1 per cent on voter approval.

This is no accident

But you're our witness, anyway—to a piece-ful demonstration of how quickly and easily Maverick can be taken apart and put together. We designed Maverick that way for a good reason. When you're paying by the hour for service or repairs, speed is important. And at times like this, nothing can beat a simple machine.

Most new cars are more and more complicated. And more expensive to care for. Maverick's so simple to service, you can do it yourself—if you really mean it about being independent.

You won't feel like an orphan either. Our Owner's Manual shows you how to handle all the routine service. You can tune and time your engine, change plugs and points, adjust the idle, the headlamps, the handbrakes, do nearly 40 different service operations.

And if you crease a fender or crack a grille, you can almost smile. Maverick's front fenders bolt on and grilles are replaceable in minutes. And where time means money, fast means savings.

Stop in once every 36,000 miles for a lube job. Oil changes are 6,000 miles apart. (The leading import suggests oil changes twice as often and lube jobs every 6,000 miles.)

While still being simple, Maverick is big enough to take the whole family—without streaming luggage from the roof. It's small enough to park easily, and go light on gas. A 105-hp Six gives you real passing power. (You get 52 more horsepower than the leading import offers.) And the wider stance gives you a smoother ride, better handling and roadability.

It's no accident that Maverick is the hottest selling new car to come along in five years. We designed it that way. See it at your Ford Dealer's.

LEGISLATURE RESTORES FUNDS SO STATE FAIR CAN HAVE FULL RUN

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. --- The state fair will be held this year.

State Agriculture Commissioner Dexter D. Davis said last week that enough money had been appropriated by the legislature to provide for a full run of the fair.

The legislature had recommended cuts in the state fair budget which would have seriously endangered the fair's existence this year. But last week a joint Senate-House conference committee restored about 85 per cent of the Department of Agriculture's budget cuts.

The conference committee's report has already been accepted by both houses of the legislature.

When asked if the state fair was supposed to be self-supporting, Davis said: "In theory and in practice the state fair is supposed to be subsidized by the state."

Davis said the state fair receives two appropriations. The first is an appropriation from the General Revenue fund for the fair. Last year $250, 870 was appropriated from general revenue for the fair.

The second appropriation is from the state fair fee funds. Last year the appropriation amounted to $488,561. This money is raised at the fair by gate receipts and other fees.

Davis said that the total amount taken in at the fair usually exceeds this appropriations so the remainder goes back to the general revenue fund of the state.

Last year the state fair took in more than $588,000, with about $100,000 of that going back into the general revenue fund. So, when that figure is deducted from the $250,00 general revenue appropriation, it leaves the state a $150,000 bill for last year's state fair.

Davis says he thinks the fair should be state-subsidized. "It is a great thing for Missouri, not only in agriculture, but in industry," Davis says. Last year more than 350,000 persons attended the state fair and viewed exhibits provided more than 15,000 exhibitors.

"I feel the state is really getting its money's worth on the fair, Davis says. "Agriculture is still the number one industry in Missouri and it is important to keep people from Kansas City and St. Louis informed about it," he said.

But Davis says the state fair should become more concerned with other industrial exhibits. "I would like to see the state fair turn into a trade fair where buyers from all over the world would come to buy Missouri products," Davis said.

MEAT INSPECTION PROGRAM IN LEGISLATIVE LIMBO

There are some differences of opinion in Jefferson City about the future of Missouri's meat inspection program.

Sen. J.F. Patterson (D-Caruthersville) said the meat inspection program would be taken over by the Federal government in December of 1969 last week at a press conference.

Patterson held the press conference to announce the results of a House-Senate conference committee on appropriations. He said that the money for the meat inspection program had been restored to the budget with the understanding that when the Federal government takes it over, the money appropriated will go back to the State treasury.

Earlier, $800,000 had been cut from the Agriculture Department budget, which would have eliminated the meat inspection program.

Dexter D. Davis, state agriculture commissioner, said last week, however, that he had no intentions of ending the meat inspection program in December, 1969.

"I think it would be unconstitutional for me to cut out the state meat inspection program," he said.

"If Sen. Patterson wants to cut out the meat inspection program, he should work for repeal of the law creating meat inspection," Davis said.

Davis said it wasn't in his power to end any sort of programs. He said if a letter from the legislature directed him to end the program he would ask the attorney general for an opinion on the issue.

Davis says Missouri's meat inspection program -- along with California's and Wisconsin's -- is one of the best in the nation. "Our inspection program is considered a model program," Davis said.

Dr. Harlan D. Ellis, an employee of the Federal government on loan to the state, has helped set up Missouri's meat inspection program. "I don't know anything about the Federal government taking over meat inspection in Missouri," Ellis says. He says the Federal government prefers that states maintain their own programs.

Currently the Missouri inspection program is 50 per cent financed by the Federal government. Ellis says Missouri was the sixth state in the nation to begin a meat inspection program.

Ellis says that if the legislature had cut out the funds for the meat inspection program, the Federal government would have moved in and taken over the program in December of 1969. "It would have been several months before it could actually begin operating a program, however," Elis said.

Ellis said a Federal meat inspection would be geared to the federal government's needs only -- not Missouri consumers.

Davis said he definitely believe the current meat inspection program is better for Missouri consumers than an all Federal program.

So, Missouri will continue to have a state meat inspection program for at least one more year.

Meat inspection technicians inspect all 450 slaughtering houses, processing plants and frozen food locker plants in the state. The 68 inspectors llast year inspected 200,000 animals and more than 70 million pounds of processed meat consumed in Missouri -- just from small processing plants alone.

This is the key to the state meat inspection program -- it is geared to serve Missouri consumers. Ellis said a Federal program would not have been as interested in in-state commerce as in meat which crosses state lines.

Many of the small plants would not have been inspected at all under an all Federal program, leaving Missouri consumers at the mercy of the processors with respect to the quality of their meat.

British Writer: 'Your Cause Is Ours'

by Bernard Levin

A well-known British journalist and TV commentator tells the British that their everyday freedoms depend on the success of the American cause in Vietnam.

I spent yesterday evening at the opera (Wagner, of course). You, I dare say, spent it helping your children with their homework, or watching television, or learning the piano, or reading a book.

A lot of Americans and South Vietnamese, however, spent it dying. Strange to relate (and I imagine that many of them could find it strange as anyone), they spent it dying so that you can go on watching television, learning the piano, reading books and helping the children with their homework, and so that I can go on listening to Wagner.

I don't know about you, but I am grateful, and will now say why. A battle was launched in Vietnam . . . which bands of North Vietnames and Viet Cong swept through South Vietnamese towns, killing and pillaging . . . .

It is not, I believe, too fanciful to describe the battle as potentially one of the major turning - points of civilization, and to think of General Westmoreland and his men in the way that, with the perspective of history to aid us, we think of Leonidas and the Spartans at Thermopylae, John Sobieski facing the Turks at the gates of Vienna, or Lord Dowding and Fighter Command in the Battle of Britain. For each of those battles changed the face of the world for the better; or rather, prevented others from changing it for the worse.

And so it may be at this moment in Vietnam. The war there is confused and horrible; it aims blurred, its methods savage, its cost in innocent blood uncountable.

But if it is lost, if the Americans finally get tired of doing the world's work for nothing but the world's abuse, if South Vietnam is left to its fate, then what will follow is not merely the piecemeal engulfing of the rest of Southeast Asia. What will follow, as surely as Austria followed the Rhineland, and Czechoslavakia followed Austria, and Poland followed Czechoslovakia, and six years of world war followed Poland, is a nuclear confrontation on a global scale between the forces at present engaged in one tiny corner of the globe.

And that, in the end, is why my Wagner and your children are at stake this day in "a far-off country of which we know nothing." The Americans are not fighting the war there so that Saigon racketeers can grow fat on black market profits; indeed, they're only secondarily fighting it so that Saigon may stay free long enough for a society to grow up there that will be strong enough to dispense with the racketeers.

They are not even there because if they leave they will one day be digging gun emplacements in California, as the Australians will be digging them around Darwin.

They are there because they know that, where aggression is concerned, the appetite doth grow by what it feeds on; and because they therefore know that, however great the price of the war in Vietnam, it is still less than would be the price of the war we will all one day have to fight elsewhere if it is lost.

The Americans and the South Vietnamese are not alone in knowing this. The Australians and New Zealanders know it; the Thailanders know it; the South Koreans know it; the Filipinos know it. But in this country (Britain), it seems, we do not know it.

Well, it is time we did. And the battle now going on in Vietnam is as good a time to find out as we shall ever have. On this battle, the Communist forces have staked a great deal; for some time now they have been promising their increasingly disillusioned troops that one last push will see victory — if not military victory, then "victory - by - coalition."

The Communist strategy in Vietnam is to inflict such a major reverse on the Americans and South Vietnamese that they will be desperate to make peace even at te price of an agreement that gives the Communists a share in the government of South Vietnam, with the full take-over following a few months later.

I do not think that the American resolve will crack. But a word of thanks and admiration from Britain may help to show America that her resolve is recognized for what it is — a resolve to hold the front for civilization, by convincing those who would destroy it that they are not going to succeed in doing so.

I would prefer our thanks to come from our government. Unfortunately, it won't. Nor will it even come from our Opposition (party). So it has to come from us — from those of us who recognize the connection between what the Americans are doing in South Vietnam and what we like to do with our evenings in Britain.

We are not, I believe, all that few. But few or many, let me now say on behalf of us all, to the Americans and South Vietnamese and their allies, even now fighting and dying in Vietnam:

"Our words may be useless, but they are all we have to offer. We understand why you are there, and know that your cause is ours too. And we thank you.

DexterYouth AttendsCamp

LIBERTY, Mo. – Michael Bader, son of Mrs. Louis Bader Route 1, Dexter, last week attended the twenty-third annual CO-OP Youth Leadership Camp on the William Jewell College campus here.

He was among some 600 outstanding rural youth who attended the champ's three sessions - June 9-1, June 16-20, June 23-27.

Campers are sponsored by local cooperatives and youth organizations. The camp program is designed to develop leadership abilities, to teach good citizenship, to increase understanding of farmer cooperatives and to provide plenty of fun.

Farmland Industries, with headquarters in nearby Kansas City, sponsors this event.

Youth at camp are from fourteen Midwestern states which have farmer cooperatives that own and operate Farmland Industries, a regional cooperative manufacturing petroleum, feed, fertilizer and other farm supplies.

Campers arrived at William Jewell on Monday in time for registration, games and swimming. Tuesday morning they toured Farmland Industries facilities in the Kansas City area. From Tuesday afternoon through Friday, they took part in regular camp activities ranging from athletics to discussion groups. Campers learn how a cooperative functions by organizing and operating a CO-OP canteen during their camping period.

NOT HIS DAY

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — State Sen. Alfonso Montoya found frustration in a recent session of the New Mexico Legislature.

The senate in the space of a minute adopted adverse committee reports killing six bills sponsored by the Democratic legislator.

New Mexico's senate rarely has killed six bills in one day, let alone six by one senator.

Montoya is the brother of U. S. Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M.

Rural Fire Dues Payable Today

CHARLESTON - Dues for the Rural Fire Association are payable today, it was announced at City Hall here today.

Membership is $5.00 per year.

A new piece of fire fighting equipment was bought several years ago, in 1965 at a cost of approximately $12,000. The idea was then, and still is, to amortize this debt by the continuing sale of Rural Fire Association memberships at $5.00 per year.

The membership was originaly $250, but this figure has decreased some in the past four years.

One other rule is also misunderstood according to Fire Chief Joe Johnson, and that is that each fire run to the homestead of a member will mean an assessment of $100.

By attaching a rider to existing fire insurance policies the fire insurance company pays this $100, "but many of our members have either forgotten about this clause, or else it was not thoroughly explained to them in the first place," Chief Johnson said.

The local fire department is under orders from the City Council not to respond to rural fire calls unless the family involved has a membership in the Rural Fire Association.

Stamps do not have to be old to be valuable. At the recently held INTERPEX in New York, 11 Walt Disney 6¢ U.S. stamps with one color missing were sold for more than $5,000. A single stamp of the Disney issue with the black color entirely missing sold for $900. On the same day, sale of 20 of the 1968 U.S. 6¢ Christmas stamps with the light yellow color missing, including a vertical plate block of 10, sold for $2,055.

THE MAIL BAG: Doug and Bob England of Marion, Ohio, who enjoy reading the column in the Columbus Dispatch, and are new collectors, inquired as to what monies should be sent to obtain first-day covers of U.S. stamps. A money order (no checks or stamps), for the face value of the stamps to be affixed should be sent to the postmaster as indicated. If you desire a cover of a new 6-cent stamp, a self-addressed envelope plus a money order for the 6 center should be enclosed in an outer envelope to the postmaster.

To James L. Williams of Onalaska, Wis., an old stamp is not necessarily valuable. I suggest that you show it to a stamp dealer in your area. An interesting magazine on the hobby is "Stamps." The address of this weekly publication is 153 Waverly Pl., New York, N.Y. 10014.

The illustration features the Apollo 8 zooming around the moon and the earth.

Apple Drying In Ozarks Has Modern Twist

Many strangers tread the path to the door of Mr. and Mrs. Elba Pyles in Carthage. They are searching for a good piece of fried, dried, apple pie "like granny used to make."

It all began when Pyles, known as "Shorty" to his friends, decided that dried apples, found in the supermarkets, did not look or taste like the ones he remembered eating when he was a boy in the hills of Arkansas.

The reason much fruit was preserved by drying then was the scarcity and expensiveness of canning jars. Not one kitchen in the whole community boasted of the gleaming white freezer that is a must in the kitchens of today.

Pyles recalled seeing his mother peel apples and slice them, preparing them for the drying process. It was his job to climb onto the roof and spread them to dry. No moisture, either dew or rain, could fall on the fruit during the drying process. Thus, it all had to be removed from the roof each evening and returned to its place in the sun the following morning. It was a lot of trouble, he said, but by now he had begun to think it was worth it.

He took the matter up with his wife, who enjoys cooking and is never happier than when preparing big meals for those she loves. She remembered that her mother used to fry the small "halfmoon" pies and agreed to try it if he would furnish the dried apples. Only sun dried fruit would do it "just right."

Shorty found exactly the kind of apples he wanted for the project, at a near-by market. Jonathan or Ben Davis hold their shape and do not begin to spoil before they form the crust around them as the drying begins.

Next was to figure out a way to get them in and out of the sun without having to climb onto the roof, 65-year-old legs were not quite as agile as they had been 50 years ago. He solved the problem by driving his car into a sunny spot on the front law. He placed cloths on the top, on the hood and the trunk of the car. Then, when the apples had been peeled and sliced (about eight slices each) he placed the fruit carefully on the cloths.

The sun was right and the apples began to take on a different shade and to shrink. When the morning had passed and the shadows had began to creep over the drying fruit, Shorty climbed into the car and drove it around into the sun again on a different part of the lawn. No moving apples onto and off of a roof. He had found a modern and effective way to do the age-old job. He only had to take them into the house at night.

After three days in the sun, the apples were ready to be brought in and placed in a cloth bag where the air could get through them and they were ready for winter use.

Mrs. Pyles had tried to remember exactly how she had seen her own mother make the pies. Recipes were not always used in those days. In fact, most women who were known as good cooks, never used a written recipe. Mrs. Pyles says she cooks "by guess and by gosh."

Soon the two had discovered that making fried pies is a "2-man operation." So while she prepared them for their stay in the pan of hot fat, Shorty fried them to a golden brown.

The couple has made the pies, which have become well known throughout the area, for more than four years now and friends can almost always find one when asked to have coffee at their house. Several have suggested that they do it commercially. "Oh no," Shorty often replies, "If anyone eats my fried pies they will do it with their feet under my table."

Mrs. Pyles is often heard to say to her friends, "Come on over to our house. I've got a stack of fried pies that you couldn't shake hands over." She usually has.

When asked for the recipe, she admits that she does not measure things as she prepares them but "I'll tell you as near as I can. You will just have to use your own judgment."

Granny's Fried, Dried Apple Pies

Pastry

1¼ cups cooking oil or shortening

3 ½ cups flour (approximately).

1 cup sweet milk.

1 teaspoon salt.

Mix according to your own method of mixing pie dough and roll a piece the size of an egg on the pastry board until it is about an eighth of an inch thick.

Place the dough on a 6-inch salad plate and add about three or four tablespoons of the fruit to one side of the dough. Turn the other half of the crust back over the filled side and crimp the edges together firmly. Be sure that there are no perforations where the fruit may leak out into the hot fat.

Have heating on the stove, a heavy skillet or roaster two thirds full of cooking oil or shortening. When the fat has reached 370 degrees (or about the temperature that you would use for French fries), place the prepared pies in the fat, never trying to fry more than two at a time. Allow to fry until agolden brown, remove from the fat and place to cool on a rack covered with several layers of paper towels. Pies should never be stacked until they are thoroughly cool. Stacking while hot will cause sogginess.

The apples for the pies are simply prepared by cooking the fruit until it is tender and juicy, draining off the excess juicy and adding about three cups of sugar to six cups of the cooked apples. Add a teaspoon of cinnamon. This amount of the fruit and pastry should make about 10 or 12 pies, depending upon the varying size of the plate they are prepared on and the amount of filling used for each one. A little practice is usually required in the handling and measuring to suit the individual taste.

Mild Mannered Meat Loaf Is Made With Veal

Like a change-of-pace meat loaf? Light in color, mild in seasonings with salt, pepper and ground carrots, this entree is ideal.

When diets call for meals that are low in spicy condiments, a combination of veal and pork with sour cream answers the need in an appetizing manner, says Reba Staggs, meat authority with the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Sour Cream Veal Loaf

1½ pounds ground veal
½ pound ground pork
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 carrots, ground
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup dairy sour cream
Flour

Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pack into a 5 x 9-inch loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 1½ hours. Thicken drippings for gravy, allowing 2 tablespoons flour for each cup of drippings. 6 to 8 servings.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — New Zealanders drank 24.3 gallons of beer per capita in 1968, reports the government statistician.

This compares with the 24.2 gallons in 1967 and 23.6 gallons in 1966.

The increase maintains New Zealand's position as one of the world's most vigorous beer-drinking nations.

Catfish Farm in Mississippi County Announced by Story

CHARLESTON -- An 80-acre catfish farm has been constructed on Route 77 one-fourth mile north of "34" Corner by A. L. "Bud" Story Jr.

Story plans to stock his eight lakes with fingerling channel catfish, and supply pay lake operators as far north as St. Louis county with 1⅛ to 2 pound fish. At present many of these lake owners must drive up to 350 miles into central Arkansas to obtain fish.

Most of the engineering on this project was done by the soil and water District Conservationist Bill Willis.

The layout calls for a 100-foot strip of land adjacent to Highway 77 which will serve as headquarters and a parking area. A ditch runs east and west the entire length of the field on the north side. This will carry water from the lakes to a roadside ditch in case of a drawdown of any of the eight lakes.

Next to the headquarters parking area are two lakes, each covering an area of 6.9 acres on either side of a central levee which bisects the 80-acre field east and west. Next to the 6.9 acre lakes are four lakes each containing 8.3 acres, and finally here are two 8-acre lakes on the west end of the project. Total water area will be 63 acres, and each of the ponds will have an average depth of 5½ feet.

The central levee is also the location of two 8-inch wells driven to a depth of 80 feet. This levee will be used to service all of the lakes, and also from it feed will be distributed to the eight lakes which adjoin it on each side.

Story hopes to have his first batch of fingerling fish in their new homes by July 1.

He has spent many hours reading up on catfish culture, and he has visited many "farms" in Arkansas, Mississippi and some in Texas.

The ponds will by stocked with fingerlings at the rate of 1,500 to 2,000 per acre. Barring unforeseen problems Story hopes to sell 1,500 pounds of fish per acre per year, and that compares very favorably with beef or pork production per acre.

"I figured I had to do something to supplement my farm income," he said. "We usually sell our produce - cotton, corn soybeans and wheat in a saturated market. Income continues to go down, and operating expenses continue to go up. In that situation something has to give, and after much careful study I've decided to catfish farming.

Recreation is one of the biggest if not the biggest industry in the country, he noted. "Pay fishing lakes are springing up everywhere, especially near the large cities. The market is practically unlimited.

"Furthermore, catfish are not like beef or pork which must be sent to market when the steer or hog reaches a given weight. If you can't sell to pay lake operators, catfish continue to grow at a profitable rate, and they can be disposed of on the market. He cited the opening of "catfish kitchens" all over the midwest, plus the fact that markets are beginning to offer fish fillets more or less regularly.

Mr. Story used his own farm equipment to build his ponds, thus cutting down on the cost of construction.

Deep well water contains very little oxygen. It is also high in iron content. Both problems, Mr. Story believes, will be solved by pumping the water over baffles to increase the oxygen content of the water, and to dissipate the iron.

The fish will be fed a high protein diet once each day by scattering two types of feed – floating feed and a water soluble feed near the banks.

Purple Martins Recruited to Aid Mosquito Control

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Army engineers have recruited purple martins for duty at Beaver REservoir in northwest Arkansas as part of a mosquito - control program.

Normally, the engineers spray recreation areas with an insecticide to control insects, but a lake official claims the purple martins will eat their weight in flying insects every day.

Four apartment-style purple martin houses have been installed along the shoreline of the lake. And, so far, the purple mosquito eaters have the situation well in hand, the official said.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PRESCRIPTION:

The investment behind it

Each year the drug industry invests millions of dollars in research to support the nearly one billion prescriptions filled yearly by pharmacists throughout the country. This investment results in new "wonder drugs" which let us live our lives longer, healthier. Of the 300 milion dollars invested last year more than 150 million dollars went for quality control research. Improved precision measuring and compounding instruments were developed to make even more certain you receive exactly what your doctor prescribes. And the investment also went for developing improved methods of production. As the methods of manufacturing improve, the price of the bulk drug decreases. This saving is passed on to you in lower prescription prices. The "gold pill" of yesterday is purchased today for a nominal amount. Thus, a conscientious, developing industry works to improve the service and quality of the pharmaceuticals you receive today and tomorrow.

For the highest pharmaceutical standards, low prices consistent with quality and the personal attention you can always depend upon, bring your prescriptions to

Seven Joint Committees to Conduct Legislative Studies

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Legislature has quit but not before creating seven new joint House-Senate interim study committees that are expected to do some work between now and Jan., 1971, when the 76th General Assembly convenes.

Each will have five members from both houses, instructed to investigate specific problems facing the state and make recommendations for new legislation to solve whatever problems are uncovered in the studies.

The committees that were authorized, and their assignments:

A recreation and water resources committee to look into water safety, tourism, recreation, water resources and methods of preserving Missouri's scenic rivers in their natural state.

Administration of law and justice—A committee to study the judicial system, the State Supreme Court, criminal laws on the books, the juvenile code and law enforcement.

Mobile homes — This group will try to come up with suggestions for new tax laws covering the assessment of mobile homes and mobile home developments. Health and zoning problems also will be studied.

Uniform consumer credit code —A lengthy, 134-page law that was introduced this session by Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, was considered too complicated to absorb in one session. This committee will review the code and current Missouri law and try to reconcile the two.

Intangible tax — This group will investigate charges that millions of dollars due the state in intangible taxes are lost every year. The 4 per cent tax applies to interest earned on savings and securities.

Rep. Charles S. Broomfield, D-Kansas City, who will probably head the committee, reported during the past session that 355 financial institutions in Missouri did not file returns in 1968. A majority of the state's 20,000 non-profit organizations, although subject to the tax, also failed to file.

Estimates of the amount lost each year by failure to collect the intangible tax ranged as high as $20 million.

Public and private aid sources—State agencies and political subdivisions receive an unknown amount of private and public money every year. This committee will try to identify the sources and amounts so the state can budget more accurately.

Tax exemption and revision—A study of current policy which exempts non-profit and religious organizations from taxes and an investigation of cooperatives and foundations.

Voters to Decide 7 Amendments

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri voters will get to voice their opinion on at least seven pieces of legislation enacted by the 75th General Assembly that collapsed at midnight Monday.

Of the 74 proposed constitutional amendments introduced since January, only seven survived.

At the next general election in 1970—or earlier if ordered by the governor—here is how voters will be asked to amend the state's charter:

To let the State Treasurer serve two consecutive four-year terms if elected by the people. Now he is limited to one term.

Let school district operating levies remain at their last approved level if a request for a higher levy is defeated by that district's voters, instead of reverting to the basic levy of $1.25 and perhaps resorting to halfday school sessions.

Voters also will get a chance to increase the basic school operating levy from $1.25 to $1.85. This would let districts boost the levy to $5.55 instead of $3.75 on a simple majority vote.

Another proposed constitutional change would let the State Highway Department use highway funds — motor fuel taxes—to finance bonds to build toll roads any place the commission deems feasible.

A toll road law was passed in 1967 by the General Assembly but the state's Supreme Court said last July the constitution prohibited using state funds for toll road purposes. If approved by the voters, the proposed change would get around that.

Whether to have annual legislative sessions also will be decided by the voters. The proposal would let the legislature have a six-month session in odd-numbered years—as it does now—and five months in even numbered years.

Now the legislature can meet only at the call of the governor during even-numbered years and then must adjourn within 60 days. When called by the governor it can consider only matters proposed by him.

The proposal would also provide cutoff dates for introduction of legislation and would let the legislature come back for 10 days to consider any measures vetoed by the chief executive.

Home rule for St. Louis County is another proposed constitutional change that will go on the ballot. It would let St. Louis County broaden its charter form of government but new services would first have to be approved by the voters in the county.

Judicial reform barely made its way to the ballot in the final hectic minutes of the session.

One of its main features would set up procedures for ousting judges for violations of oaths or other wrongful acts without having to go through impeachment proceedings in the House of Representatives.

It would provide a mandatory retirement age of 70 and strengthen the retirement system for judges.

It would, too, make changes in the jurisdiction of the state's Supreme Court and do away with the commissioner system in the state's appellate courts.

Commissioners now would not be removed but would be replaced as judges when their respective terms expire.

Another big change would make the present three appeals circuits regions and let the General Assembly create new regions as the need arose.

Free Food Stamp Bill Dealt Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of a proposal to give free food stamps to impoverished families have lost a close fight in the Senate Agriculture Committee, but say they will carry the battle to the floor.

The committee rejected the proposal 7-5 Monday.

Supporters of the free food stamp proposal reportedly included Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D.; Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky.; Robert J. Dole, R-Kan.; Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., and James B. Allen D-Ala.

Talmadge had introduced a measure which would set $40 as the minimum monthly income at which the poor would have to pay to receive the stamps which can be traded for food at grocery stores.

This was only one of a stack of complex suggestions made to the committee which hopes to complete work this week on a bill to liberalize and broaden the food stamp program.

McGovern is cosponsor of a bill which would make free stamps available to families with monthly incomes less than $80.

President Nixon has proposed free food stamps for families with little or no income, roughly less than $30 a month.

The government in early March began an experimental program giving free food stamps to families with less than $30 monthly income in two South Carolina counties. This was a turnabout in a long-standing government policy which required some payment from any families receiving the stamps.

During the past year the Agriculture Department had reduced the requirements for the extremely poor so that a family of four could pay $2 a month and receive stamps for $58 worth of food. But on a national average food-stamp recipients in all eligible income ranges receive an average of $10 in coupons for $6.

States now set their own guidelines for determinging eligibility for the stamps, but the Senate committee reportedly has agreed to change this by giving the Agriculture Department authority to specify the requirements.

The committee also was said to have recommended increasing federal food stamp financing from the present $340 million annually to $1.5 billion by 1971.

Rocky Leaves Argentina in State of Siege

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina was under a state of siege today as terrorism and labor unrest continued to shake the nation during Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's fact-finding visit for President Nixon.

The government broadcast the state of siege declaration Monday night, two hours before a 24-hour nationwide general strike was scheduled to begin in protest against the New York governor's visit and the policies of President Juan Carlos Ongania's military regime.

Rockefeller flew to Haiti this morning after 35 hours in Argentina and talks with Ongania during the fourth leg of his mission to Latin America.

The general strike was called by the strong antigovernment faction of the General Labor Confederation (CGT), headed by printers union President Raimundo Ongaro. Union sources said Ongaro was arrested Monday.

Police closed the labor organization's headquarters Monday night, and a police official said only that the government had "intervened."

Hours before, Augusto Vandor, leader of the moderate wing of the CGT, was killed in a daring daylight attack on his office in downtown Buenos Aires. Terrorists burst into the union headquarters, fired several machine gun bursts into Vandor's office and tossed a bomb through the door.

Vandor, 44, was secretarygeneral of the metal workers union and had refused to support the call for a general strike. His death was the 22nd in the six-week wave of antigovernment unrest that began when a student demonstrator was killed in Corrientes May 19.

Demonstrations first were aimed at "police repression," then developed into protests against the economic, political and social policies of the Ongania regime.

The current disorders are considered the most serious in Argentina since the 1955 revolution that toppled the dictatorship of Juan D. Peron.

The state of siege declaration was the first since security measures were lifted in October 1963 after 32 years of almost constant restriction.

There was no immediate indication of what security measures would be imposed. A ban on public meetings and demonstrations and permission for police to search without warrants were expected.

Windshield wiper blades should be replaced at least once a year, according to safety engineers of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. The blade rubber loses its effectiveness after being used from six months to a year because of the baking action of the sun, windburn, petroleum fumes from vehicles, dirt, smog and smoke.

If You Were the Judge

Unclothed Patient is Legally Entitled For Admission

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

While Dorothy was lovely to look at she was a sight to see when she entered a private hospital complaining of pains in her stomach. Immediately, the doctors decided that her appendix had to come out. Her clothes were removed, she was handed a hospital gown and she was given some medication in anticipation of the grand opening.

Her benefactors, however, proved to be Indian givers. When the admitting office discovered that Dorothy couldn't get up the $200 admission fee, the hospital gown was taken back, she was handed her clothes and was sent on her way.

A second hospital proved more humanistic. They relieved Dorothy of her disconcerting appendix without any front money. And when she recovered, she sued the first hospital for not performing the operation in the first place and in making her suffer unbearable pain for five unnecessary hours.

"A hospital," she complained in court, "is supposed to be hospitable. I was thrown out like a tattered old rag."

"We're a private hospital," was the defense. "We don't have to admit anyone we choose not to. And since Dorothy didn't have the admitting fee, we exercised our option not to accept her."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the hospital pay Dorothy for not taking care for her?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! He held that while a private hospital may not be required to admit undesired patients, by taking Dorothy's clothes, giving her a hospital gown and administering medication to her, the hospital, both physically and legally, had admitted her. Having done so, it had a duty not to act unreasonably to having her removed from its premises. It could not throw her out while she was in pain and in need of treatment.

Dear Sir:

Citizens seriously opposed to communism and desiring to actively combat the menace have formed "TEAMS OF 2 TO 6" to promote causes. Two patriots start a TEAM to elect a Chairman who pledges members to deliver 20 minutes each week to make freedom workable. One agrees to spend 20 minutes on Monday, another Tuesday, and others each select one of the 4 succeeding weekdays, commending TV and radio stations and their advertisers for airing patriotic messages. Each member names an alternate, who may be a spouse. Members, on their chosen weekdays, phone 6 acquaintances suggesting they use the goods and services which advertisers offer on patriotic media. A "Spirit of Crusade" develops and the TEAM is organized in promoting patriotism. Each "TEAM OF 6" is a crusade of 2 hours weekly and a thousand TEAMs, 2,000 hours per week, which may decide an issue in a sizable city. 10,000 TEAMS, 20,000 hours, could sway a metropolis to the "truth side." Members may start or join as many as six other "TEAMS OF 6." Chairmen should keep contact with other chairmen.

Constructively,

Bias on On The Intellectual Boob Tube Not So Very Educational

By ERNEST THOMPSON
News Editor, Ada (Okla.)
Evening News

This is round number 1,226 of my running gun battle with the National Educational Television Network...

Ideally, educational television networks, subsidized by your taxes and mine, should present programs which are not commercially feasible - such things as concerts, lectures, operas, debates, great dramas, etc. NET has done some good work along the line, but I find that it consistently takes a slanted view (leftward tilt) in political affairs.

I recall one "educational" discussion that was so filled with loaded terms as to inspire this writer to kick the side of his television set. That was back during the campaign of '64.

It happened again last (September). NET, through its state channel (13), dropped in on the controversial H. L. Hunt, described by the TV Guide blurb sheet as possibly the wealthiest man in America who uses his money to further right-wing causes.

Now, I hold no particular brief for Mr. Hunt. I have met him and he seemed a nice sort of fellow. I have heard his LIFE LINE broadcasts and many of them did not seem nice at all. In fact, some of them turned my stomach. Others, I pretty much agreed with. But, Mr. Hunt is not particularly my favorite character.

That aside, I feel the treatment given him by NET was scandalous. To begin with, 50 percent of the questions were loaded, e.g., "Do you feel you are doing enough for Christianity?" Good grief.

But the clincher came when NET decided that the "other side" should be told. So, in trotted Charles Baxter and Franklin Littrell of the leftist Institute for American Democracy to rebut Mr. Hunt's political stances. Their innuendo- filled assault on Hunt, the city of Dallas and conservatives in general was disgusting. They even tried to tie in Hunt's "slanted" LIFE LINE program with the "mood of Dallas" at the time John F. Kennedy was shot. This to me, is the epitome of the pot calling the kettle black.

Now, I recall many instances of interviews on NET, ranging from far left to far right and in between. But, this is the first time I ever recall a team being called in to "tell the other side." For example, NET felt no compulsion to "give the other side" of the Drew Pearson story when that slander - monger appeared on the network. Is Mr. Hunt any more "irresponsible" than Mr. Pearson? The question is rhetorical.

Some liberals are so found of preaching fairness and so neglectful to practice it. The NET interviewer (make that read "interrogator") James Fleming, a last - minute replacement for Charles Connor, who is known to share at least some of Hunt's views, assigned all sorts of foul motives to the Texas millionarie's "propagandizing" over radio.

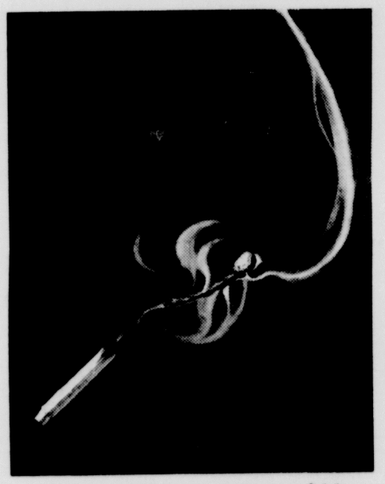
It evidently did not even occur to him to compare Hunt's methods to those of the Rockefellers, Fords, etc., who perpetuate foundations such as the Center for Study of Democratic Institutions and other leftist organizaitons. This latter activity, presumably, is philanthropic and egalitarian, while Mr. Hunt's doing the same thing on the other side of the issue is selfish and dangerous.

Did Mr. Hunt approve of Gen. Edwin Walker or the John Birch Society? Well, said the Texan, he disapproved of certain acts of the Birchers but he refused to issue a blanket condemnation of any group of persons. This is precisely what such groups as the American Civil Liberties Union and the Americans for Democratic Action have been preaching for years: To condemn in generalities is "McCarthyism," they say. Ah, but the show was on the other foot and it obviously pinched... thus, the double standard, and not for the first time.

I vigorously disapprove of my tax money being used in such a manner as it is used frequently on NET, whether or not I agree ith U.L. Hunt's philosophies and activities. And, I can't help wonder if some liberal (Hunt was constantly referred to as a "far rightist") millionaire devoted his funds to promulgating the leftist cause if he would be treated in the same manner as was Mr. Hunter. No, I am not that naive. I really don't wonder at all.

As long as we are leaning over backward to be "fair" to seditionists, such as Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael, and hoodlums, such as those who burn down our cities, it is curious to me to see this unrelenting attack on the "far right," which, for all its public exposure, cannot possibly, even with a dozen H. L. Hunts hope to affect with a massive electronic propaganda barrage the Liberal Establishment. That "establishment" has at its beck and call not mere millions of dollars, but billions.

And, we must remember, the "rightists" at least pay for their own air time, whereas, the "other side" is presented consistently as "public service" programming (translation: gratis advertisement), boosting everything from the Neighborhood Youth Corps to the USDA Extension Service.



This match can still burn a forest.

This one can't.

10 seconds made the difference.

In the forest, no match is "out" until it's cold. Neither is a cigarette. Nor a campfire. Nine out of ten forest fires are caused by people who forget this. Please—only you can prevent forest fires.

Ogilvie to Sign Income Tax

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie planned to sign today a state income tax bill that will become effective Aug. 1 if upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court.

On that date, employers are to begin withholding 2 1/2 per cent from individuals' pay checks. Corporations will pay at a 4 per cent rate.

The House completed approval of the bill Monday night by a vote of 91 to 73 after three hours of debate in which Democrats charged that the Republican governor would be able to build a huge surplus in the state treasury.

Unless the levy is voided in court, Illinois will become the 38th state with an income tax.

In 1931, the legislature enacted a state income tax but it was thrown out a year later by the courts, primarily because the tax was graduated.

Pipeline Damaged in Storm

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Monsanto Co. officials estimated damage to a pipeline struck by two vessels driven downriver by Saturday night's violent storm at $300,000.

The steamer Becky Thatcher, with a replica of the historic Santa Maria moored alongside, was ripped away from its moorings by high winds.

Damage to the steamer, used as a floating restaurant, was estimated at $10,000, but the Santa Maria — purchased recently for $375,000 — may be a total loss.

Surtax Extension Wins Narrow Margin in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting after a last-minute plea from President Nixon and under strong pressure from leaders of both parties, the House has narrowly passed a bill to extend the income surtax.

The bill approved Monday 210-205, now goes to the Senate where leaders predict consideration may take three months.

Technically the 10 per cent surtax expired at midnight, only hours after the House action.

However, Congress already has voted to continue the withholding rates which include the surcharge through July, and the tax itself can later be extended retroactive to July 1. Senate leaders have said a further 60-day extension of the withholding rates probably will be sought.

Nixon wants the surtax to continue at a 10 per cent rate through December and then at 5 per cent until the end of next June.

Opposition to the bill has come mainly from congressmen who fear any chance for far reaching tax reforms will be lost if not included in the surtax extension measure. Just before the close of House debate Monday night, Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford read a letter from the President aimed at swaying such opponents.

"I want to remove any vestige of doubt as to the commitment of this administration to prompt and meaningful tax reform," Nixon said.

Earlier in the day Nixon met at the White House with 28 Republican congressmen, most of them opponents of the surtax extension. All but 10 of these ended up voting for the bill.

In all, Nixon got 154 House Republican votes while 26 GOP members opposed it.

House Democratic leaders gave strong support to the extension, but only 56 votes for the bill came from that side of the aisle. Opposed were 179 Democrats.

Joining Nixon and Ford in the heavy last-minute pressure for passage were House Speaker John W. McCormack, Democratic Leader Carl Albert, Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., and Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., who handled the measure. Boggs said "something approaching panic" could occur if inflation is not curbed soon.

Stormy Legislative Session Ends in State of Confusion

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The wildest Missouri legislative session in many years ended a few minutes after midnight today, marked by confusion to the bitter end.

Before they quit, the lawmakers passed $57 million worth of tax speedup bills. Another, carrying $10 million, fell by the wayside in the House.

That is the money Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said all along would be essential to finance the record $1.3 billion budget for the fiscal year that started today.

In the final hour the Senate also completed action on a "must" school bill to increase the state aid formula by $35 million the first year and eventually in four years to bring state aid to a 50-50 share of operating costs.

To finance the first year, a $31 million cigarette tax was tied to the bill. It will increase the state tax on cigaretts from 4 to 9 cents a package as soon as the governor signs the bill into law.

How soon any money will be available for hard pressed schools is another question. The governor and many legislators predicted it would face a constitutionality test in the State Supreme Court because of procedures used in passing the bill.

The two big tax proposals of the six-month session went up in the smoke of last day conflict between the two houses. They would have increased corporate income taxes by about $30 million a year and individual taxes about $34 million.

The administration forces tried to the last to get the tax increases out of the House — Senate conference committee mud, but senators led by Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D—Hillsboro held out adamantly.

A $9 million increase in corporate franchise taxes also was killed in the Senate on the final day, while a $9.5 million proposed increase in wine and liquor taxes was throttled in the House by inaction.

In the frantic maneuvering, the House held the school aid—cigarette tax bill as long as it dared while the Senate used every stratagem to prevent conference committee action on the income tax bills.

The Senate, in turn, bottled up the tax collection speedup bills until the closing hours. Violating Senate traditions, Blackwell called them up even though Sen. T. D. McNeal, D—St. Louis, the Senate Ways and Means chairman, had been designated by the House sponsor, Rep. Harold Volkmer, D—Hannibal, as the man to handle the bills in the Senate.

Blackwell said he had no choice and charged administration forces were trying to create chaos to make the legislature look bad with nothing accomplished.

In the final hour there was plenty of chaos without any outside help.

The House adjourned at 11:40 p.m. after passing a bare bones capital improvements bill carrying only the $11.5 million the governor asked for originally for necessary repairs and replacements. There are no new buildings in the bill—a situation the governor deplored.

The House approved about $57.5 million for capital improvements earlier but that died.

Last year when no capital improvement bill was passed, the Governor called the legislature back in a fall special session. But he said today he had no plans for any immediate special session until he studies the effects of the regular session action and inaction.

The hectic windup left the final catchall or omnibus appropriation bill stranded. It carried about $4.3 million in the Senate version, compared with about $7 million in the bill passed by the House last week.

The catchall bill carried money to fund legislation passed this year, plus refunds and some items overlooked earlier.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D — Caruthersville, Senate appropriations chairman, said he doubted whether failure to pass the bill would make much difference because most of the bills do not go into effect until Oct. 13 and the legislature will be back for its off year budget session next January to take care of any emergencies.

A big question was whether failure to pass the omnibus bill would affect state welfare operations.

On the last day the legislature passed a broad welfare bill to comply with federal requirements on the plea that if it didn't pass the state might lose as much as $30 million in federal aid funds.

It also carried a number of increases in welfare grants, raising the maximum for old age assistance from $80 to $85 a month, for permanent and total disability from $75 to $80 and general relief from $65 to $70.

One cost of living increase for families getting aid to dependent children, required by the federal government, would add $959,000 to welfare costs. Altogether the federal requirements would cost an estimated $1,224,000.

Hearnes said he did not know what effect failure to pass the omnibus bill might have on welfare grants until the situation is studied by Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter.

Blackwell said he doubted there would be any affect because the legislature had shown its intention to comply with federal demands.

One of the big bills passed on the last night was a Congressional Redistricting measure designed to meet U.S. Supreme Court requirements that Missouri's 10 districts comply strictly to the one man-one vote formula.

Only one change was made in the version passed earlier by the Senate.

Howard and Cooper Counties were shifted from the 4th to the 8th Districts and Morgan and Moniteau were transferred from the 8th to the 4th.

This gives more Democratic votes to the 8th of Rep. Richard H. Ichord D—Houston. But Kansas City area senators who said they had talked with Rep. William Randall, D—Independence, reported he had no objections to picking up a few more Republican votes in Morgan and Moniteau Counties.

Passage of the bill, if it stands up, meant the legislature had succeeded in doing its own redistricting instead of setting up a bipartisan redistricting commission as the governor had requested.

In the midnight stretch run, the Senate also jammed through a broad constitutional amendment for judicial reform a revised version of the plan recommended by the Missouri Bar.

But another bar association bill to set up a system of public defenders to provide legal aid for indigents failed to beat the clock.

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D—Columbia, the majority leader, adjourned the Senate until July 10 when a technical session will be held.

Prince Charles Installed As Cheers, Bombs Echo

CAERNARVON, Wales (AP(— Charles of Windsor, the next king of Britain, was installed as Prince of Wales today amid the rousing cheers of thousands—and the echoes of bombs apparently set off by Welsh extremists demanding independence.

Queen Elizabeth II placed the coronet on her 20-year-old son's head in the court of ancient Caernarvon Castle, handed him the mantle, ring, gold rod, sword and letters patent of his noble rights.

Charles in turn swore allegiance to the crown he some day will wear and pledged fealty, understanding and support for the principality of Wales.

The medieval pageantry of heralds, knights, banners, trumpets, carriages, bards and Druids, choristers, officialdom and foreign guests was carried out in warm sunshine and gentle breeze.

The precision of the lavish pomp and circumstances carried on despite a series of extremist tries to disrupt the ceremony. Two men died for their efforts.

The royal train stopped three times on its way from London overnight because of bomb scares on railway trestles.

One bomb exploded near Caernarvon near where the royal train had stopped. Police milled about the area and witnesses said the explosion tore up a section of truck. But railroad authorities later said the truck was not damaged and the bomb had exploded on a nearby waste lot. Two youths were arrested.

Tricia Nixon, daughter of the President, was aboard a train which passed over the track before the bomb went off.

One young man threw an egg at the queen's carriage on her way to the castle. He was nearly lynched by the mob but was rescued by police. They were out in such force that any guess from 3,000 to 5,000 seemed to be close.

Earlier two Welshmen carrying explosives some distance from Caernarvon, but clearly for dangerous purposes, were caught in their own trap. They blew themselves up by accident.

Despite all this the royal family—the queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and above all Prince Charles himself—went through the tedious but highly impressive ceremony with aplomb, smiles, waves of the hand and traditional calm for which they all have been trained.

The town of 9,200 swelled to a quarter of a million for the first such ceremony in 58 years, demonstrated with rousing cheers. Interspersed boos were drowned out.

Charles appeared for the solemn ceremony, which was watched by television viewers around the world, after spending the night in a secret, heavily guarded location somewhere in northwest Wales.

Surrounded by nobles of the realm, Welsh leaders, foreign dignitaries and diplomats, Charles knelt in obeisance to his mother.

The heir to the throne then pledged:

"I, Charles, Prince of Wales, do become your liege man of life and limb and earthly worship, and faith and trust I will bear unto you to live and die against all manner of folks."

The queen then presented Charles to the people of Wales.

The town of Caernarvon with a population of only 9,200 swelled to a milling throng of a quarter of a million. The vast crowd waved a sea of Union Jacks, ignoring the Welsh nationalists.

$21,867 Grant Announced Today for Bootheel Area

The Office of Economic Opportunity approved a $21,867 grant for the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation in Portageville today, pending Governor Warren E. Hearnes' approval.

The four- month grant, benefitting about 850 people, is pro-rated for four months. Management staffing of programs available under the grant will begin this month, DAEOC Executive Director Charles Fleer said.

The program will provide housing development information to low-income families in the Bootheel area -- Dunklin, Stoddard, Scott, Mississippi, Pemiscot and New Madrid counties.

The OEO grant will finance the following projects, according to Fleer.

1-- It will assist in providing low- rate, federally insured land development loans.

2-- It will provide low- rate, federally insured construction loans.

3-- A training program for housing management and construction will be provided.

4-- Technical assistance in land development in planning, processing, designing and construction of residential housing will be provided.

5-- Researched information and development in scientific methods of construction of quality low- cost housing will be provided.

6-- It will provide access to private and federal "seed" money, money which is invested to attract more money.

The most immediate result of the grant, after the governor's approval and staffing operations begin, will be purchase of a site and construction of a building to house the programs executive staff, Fleer said.

Assault Charges Filed In Mississippi County

CHARLESTON -- Charges of assault with intent to kill have been filed against a Chicago Ill., Negro man and his wife and his wife's sister following reported attacks on Charleston police officers Sunday morning, Prosecuting Attorney Ron Ashby said today.

The prosecutor said former Charleston Negroes Flanella Hart Haslett and her husband, Wesley Hasslett, both of Chicago, and Flanella's sister Ruby Townsend, Charleston, have been charged with alledgedly instigating a minor riot and attacking officers Robert Smith, Jr., Bill Howard and Captain Cecil Boes when they attempted to stop the disturbance.

Ashby said Flanella used a bottle as a weapon; a knife and a bottle was reportedly found in Haslett's possession and Ruby Townsend was alledgedly carrying a knife.

Townsend is in Mississippi County Jail, but the Haslett's left the city before warrants could be served, Ashby said.

Additional damage to the E. C. Robinson Lumber Co., which has been set on fire following the Sunday riot, was reported last night by Officer Howard, who said rocks and bottles had been thrown through two windows in the front of the building.

Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons and Prosecutor Ashby said they were "continuing their investigation of suspected arson on the part of two Negroes, Willie Lee Jones and Herschel Henry Brown, who were arrested and jailed Sunday on suspicion of arson in the burning of the Robinson Lumber Co. and the Simpson warehouse, both located in the Negro section of town.

Simmons said he was "also continuing investigation" of the breakage of windows at six downtown stores that occured Sunday morning along with the theft of men's slacks from the Friedman Department Store -- where a broken door glass enabled them to gain entry.

$29,810 Training Grant Announced

A $29,810 federal grant has been provided to the Bootheel Economic Development Council for the purpose of hiring staff members to coordinate vocational opportunities in the Bootheel with people who need jobs and are capable of working.

The Noranda Corp., presently under construction at New Madrid, played a large role in getting the grant for the Bootheel area, Philip Shelton, research analyst, Bootheel Economic Development Council, aid today.

There is an effort to hire local people at the Noranda Corp. rather than going to St. Louis or Cape Girardeau to get workers, Shelton said.

There are plenty of people in the Bootheel area who need jobs, he said. With the help of the $29,810 grant, the people can be trained to work and it won't be necessary to go out of the Bootheel to get workers, Shelton said.

The grant will be used to place people in jobs at other places than the Noranda plant, but the coming existence of the Noranda,Corp., may have speeded the grant somewhat.

The grant was provided by the Economic Development Association in Washington, and the Missouri Association of Migrant Opportunities Services was the prime contractor in getting the grant for the Bootheel area.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

SUNLIT FIELDS

The sun lifts early in the east and travels a high arc across the sky. Slanting rays in the morning strike the mountains and hills, reach the upland pastures and then light the meadows. Sunlight is the dominant motif as the year reaches into summer.

Few appreciate the many shades of green as the full flush of foliage and grasses clothe the bones of earth. For an hour or two after dawn, and again in the late afternoon, one can see many hues that vary from dark to light. There are a few poignant minutes at each end of day when there are shades of gold blended with the soft greens.

Mornings are filled with bird songs. Mists lift from swales and swamps. It is an appealing picture as the elms in the river valleys begin to emerge from the meringue of fog that hovers along the streams.

Go to a sunlit meadow in mid-morning where the flowers paint a picture, and you can hear the urgent, plusing hum of bees and insects as they harvest life-essential nectar.

Warm sun broods over the fields like a benediction. The warmth is part of nature's inscrutable process that guarantees continuance of life for men and animals. There are miracles in this world that man cannot understand. He searches the depth of the seas and explores unknown frontiers in space. But sunlight on earth's fields is basic for man's happiness.

THE FOURTH AND THE FLAG

Its red for love, and its white for law;

And its blue for the hope that our fathers saw,

Of a larger liberty. -- Unknown, THE AMERICAN FLAG

The fourth of July, the national holiday, celebrates the formal adoption of the Declaration of Independence, not the beginning of the war for freedom from England nor the first commitment to independence. On July 4, 1776, amounted to formal adoption of the sense of the resolution for independence approved by the Second Continenal Congress two days before.

On the preceding June 7 Richard Henry Lee, for Virginia, had moved that "these united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states." After some debate, further action was postponed to July 1, so that some delegations could get instructions from back home. John Adams wrote from Philadelphia to his good wife Abigail at Braintree, Mass., that it was July 2 that ought to be "commemorated as the Day of Deliverance."

The delay in voting on independence proves how slowly, how reluctantly, the colonists came around to the idea. Lecky, the English historian, called the American Revolution "the work of an energetic minority." As recounted by Charles and Mary Beard, "(Even) after the war had been going for a year, an advocate of independence was regarded as a dangerous person, and was likely to be greeted with angry glances in the streets of Philadelphia."

Old Glory was probably so named when Capt. William Driver, who had just been appointed master of a new ship at Salem, Mass., cried as the flag was run up to the masthead, "There it is -- Old Glory." The meaning of the stars and stripes has been parsed in many ways, probably never more memorably than by President Woodrow Wilson in an address of May 17, 1915. Said Wilson:

"The lines of red are lines or blood, nobly and unselfishly shed by men who loved the liberty of their fellowmen more than they loved their own lives and fortunes. God forbid that we should have to use the blood of America to freshen the color of the flag. But if it ever should be necessary, that flag will be colored once more, and in being colored will be glorified and purified."

The subject of the flag and its uses becomes especially sensitive in time of war. A bill making desecration of the American flag a crime cleared the House by a 385-16 roll-call vote on June 20.

The bill resulted from the anger evoked by a recent rash of flag burnings by Viet Name protestors. Through a parliamentary quirk, the key word, "burning," was left out of the bill.

The House measure would make it a federal crime, punishable by a $1,000 fine and/or a year in jail, to cast "contempt" upon the flag by "publicly mutilating, defacing, defiling, or trampling upon it."

Existing law in 50 states makes mutilating an American flag illegal, with penalities ranging from none in New Hampshire to 25 years imprisonment in Texas. The American Civil Liberties Union strongly opposes a federal measure, and some congressmen believed the matter best left to the states.

But debate in the House lasted five hours, with member after member going to the microphone to read patriotic poetry. Earlier, Rep. James H. Quillen (R Tenn.) had said: "Anything short of a firing squad is all right with me." The dissidents assembled in Philadelphia 191 years ago probably would not have been so emphatic.

A GREAT PUT-DOWN

The "put-down" has become one of our most popular forms of insult. Throughout history, deflating detractors or the pompour has been applauded and the anecdotes have been repeated and recorded.

One of the most famous has been described by the Encyclopaedia Britannica as "apocyphal"; that is, of doubtful origin. Perhaps because it is such an effective piece of defiance, we prefer to believe that it is true.

Diogenes, the 4th century founder of the sect of Cynics, was sitting on the ground one day when the conqueror, Alexander the Great, confronted him and offered to grant a request. Diogenes replied, "Stand aside. You are blocking the sun." A great image deflater indeed.

The late Winston Churchill was master of the put-down. He punctured socialism in fine style with this comment: "It is a socialist idea that making profits is a vice; I consider the real vice is making losses."

A more recent example of the put-down involved Gov. Louis Nunn of Kentucky. Some Kentucky horse breeders had given a $70,000 thoroughbred to the Republican governors. Another faction, to show their resentment of the gift, gave the governors a $70 mule named Hope.

In accepting the "gift," the governor made the following brief speech: "When I look at the face of this mule, a somewhat sad, forlorn animal, I shall think of the sadness that dwells in the faces and within the hearts of the poor people of our state. When I look at the back of this mule, I think of the tremendous burden of responsiblity we bear for these people . . . And as this mule walks away and I see his rear quarters, I shall always be mindful of the conduct and behavior of some of those who made this presentation."

ON MINE SAFETY

There are currently several mine safety bills being considered by the U.S. Senate that would eliminate a major distinction of the Federal Coal Mine Safety Act. The distinction under threat of elimination is between gassy and non-gassy mines.

A non-gassy mine is one containing less than 25/100ths of one- per cent methane gas. This amount is not considered dangerous enough to require all of the expensive permissible mining equipment necessary to prevent gas ignition. This is because the explosive limits of methane require a concentration of from five to 15 per cent.

If a non- gassy mine is found to exceed the very low limits noted, it is reclassified as "gassy" and will never again be reclassified, this being an added safety measure of the mine safety codes.

The removal of the distinction between the two types of mines would work in the reverse of the aims of the advocates of change. It could very easily increase the incidence of mine tragedies. This would be caused by the elimination of the non- gassy mines due to increased costs of operation. This would shift production, currently undertaken by them, to the gassy mines and this increase could cause increased hazards.

Kentucky's Senator John Sherman Cooper listed the mine safety records in the Congressional Record to show the reasons for his opposition to the change. The senator pointed to the statistics proving that the added expense of the new equipment would not appreciably add to mine safety.

The senator said: "But I do ask that the difference in classification as between gassy and nongassy mines remain, because it is based upon soun premises, upon differences in characteristics, topography, and geological considerations, and chiefly because there is no gas in a nongassy mine."

The Coal Industry Committee on Coal Mine Safety, representing the non-gassy mines, makes the following statement: "It would be ironic as well as a tragedy if, in the name of mine safety, Congress enacted legislation that would have absolutely no favorable relationship to safety and cause serious economic depression in a wide area of the country." We agree.

A HEAD WAITER is rarely jealous of a movie actor, and a movie actor is not jealous of a concert violinist. A concert violinist is not jealcus of a stock broker or of a scientist.

Jealousy directs itself toward those who are doing what we are trying to do, and doing it a little better, or threatening to do it better.

Neighborhood jealousies are easily generated, because most neighborhoods are made up of people who enjoy or pretend to enjoy approximately the same incomes. In such a group, some people inevitably develop a competitive spirit. Evidence of prosperity in the form of a fresh coat of paint on the house, a new automobile or a new gown, may cause envy among watchful neighbors if the rivalry is keen.

But if one family in the neighborhood, by a stroke of fortune, gets definitely above the standard of the others, the jealous of the prosperity of this family will subside, because of the tacit recognition hat the contest is now hopeless.

It's no wonder there is a big drive on to obey the law, while they do not call our ancestors by name. They condemn every principle they fought at and died for and deep down inside they sometime wish we was still a colony and them in the drivers seat.

NEW YORK (AP) — Items from a space age newspaper in the year 2969:

New York — The insertion of a new spinal column into Roscoe J. Withers, 23rd, today on his 812th birthday made him the universe's champion receiver of human transplants with a total of 56 parts.

Here is a breakdown of his transplants: 9 hearts, 17 kidneys, 4 spinal columns, 16 livers, 8 brains and 2 ears.

"I hardly know who I am anymore," joked Withers, who sat up and began taking bending exercises immediately after the operation.

Sea of Tranquility, the Moon —The massive escape attempt by 3,869,512 convicts from this satellite's third largest prison was reported under control early today.

Some two million had surrendered. Guards reported that another million who tried to make a last-ditch stand in a series of nearby craters had been exterminated by aerial x-ray attack and added confidently:

"The rest will be rounded up shortly."

All of the fugitive convicts were desperate life-termers, each of whom had already been imprisoned here for 200 years or more.

Capital City, Saturn—John F. Nixon McKinley Roosevelt, 14th, hereditary ruler of the universe, announced today that the solar system's projected $897-octillion budget for the year 2970 had been cut by $35 octillion.

"We must cut every corner and tighten our belts," he said in a message to the Universal Congress, "in order to avoid a disastrous inflation."

Boston, Mass. — A convention of educators at Harvard University expressed alarm today at what they called "a growing tendency" among youths under the age of 200 to quit school.

"These dropouts already constitute a threat to an ordered society," a statement they adopted unanimously said.

"In the world of the future any young man or woman who abandons the classroom before the age of 200 to 250 will find himself as a misfit inadequately prepared to hold a responsible job."

Canal City, Mars—Authorities here quietly announced settlement of the long strike by the Interplanetary Federation of Sanitation Workers that has left the solar system littered with debris for the last 45 years.

Although terms of the compact were not disclosed, it was believed each of the 125 million sanitation workers received a $57 million wage hike. Their work week will be cut to five hours and they they will be given seven-month vacations.

Atlantic City, N.J.—A willowy lass from the planet Uranus triumphed over other finalists tonight to become beauty queen of the solar system.

"This is all so unexpected," gasped Miss Uranus. Her three bright blue eyes filled with tears as she received her crown.

The first bald-headed girl in history to win the contest, Miss Uranus is only 75 years old. She is 18 feet tall and she has an 85inch bust, a 47-inch waist, and 82-inch hips.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson say: State Department flirts with Fidel; Castro cracks down on hijackers; Nixon leaders bungled surtax flight

WASHINGTON--An unpublicized but secret romance has been taking place between Fidel Castro and the State Department. It hasn't blossomed into anything near matrimony as yet, but relations between the United States and Cuba have improved so much that there's speculation among Latin American diplomats that the two countries will resume relations in a year or so.

One evidence has been Fidel Castro's cooperation in regard to hijacking. Negotiations regarding hijacking are conducted through the Swiss embassy in Havana and have resulted in, first, an immediate release of American planes flown to Cuba; and second, the jailing of hijackers.

One hijacker, an American negro, Raymond Johnson, who described himself as a black panther lieutenant, complained bitterly that he had been jailed for 21 days. He also complained that other hijackers had been jailed and later sent to work camps in the interior.

Second indication of better American-Cuban understanding has been the position of the State Department in regard to the admission of Jamaica into the organization of American states. Jamaica maintains consulates in Cuba. Hitherto no members of the OAS except for Mexico have been permitted to maintain either consulates or diplomatic ties with Cuba.

During closed-door discussions over this problem, the United States has taken the lead in defending Jamaica's right to continue its consulates, while several other Latin-American countries, led by Bolivia, have been opposed.

Meanwhile, Fidel Castro has made public statements that the economic and cultural ties between Cuba and the United States have been so important in the past that Cuba must resume relations with the United States and would be willing to pay for the American property seized by his regime. Castro has even made this statement in Moscow. Russian diplomats have also told the United States frankly that they would be delighted to end their economic commitment to Cuba which is costing them around $1 million a week.

Chief deterrent to the resumption of U.S.-Cuban relations in the past has been Castro's fomenting of revolution in neighboring countries. Recently, however, there has been no evidence of Cuban guerrillas in nearby Caribbean countries.

The Anti-American sentiment stirred up during Gpvov. Rockefeller's trip has been raced to local student organizations and leftwing labor groups aroused partly over President Nixon's criticism of Latin-American universities and partly reacting to the deliberate anti-American program waged by the Peruvian military. The Peruvians have been more effective in poisoning public opinion against the United States than Fidel Castro ever was.

-Surtax Jockeying--

The Snafu over extending the ten per cent surtax resulted from two factors:

1. A grass roots groundswell against the surtax unless accompanieby drastic tax reform.

2. Bad bungling by Nixon leaders on Capitol Hill.

Regarding the latter, the White House had claimed that it had the votes to continue the ten per cent surtax. The estimate was based upon a nose count by GOP leaders which suddenly was found to be inaccurate. So the White House suddenly postponed a vote until the last day of the fiscal year--yesterday--in order to give time to twist arms and influence votes.

More important than this jockeying, however, is the fact that both democratic and Republican congressmen have been deluged with mail demanding basic tax reforms which were ignored in the surtax extension bill. Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, a member of the tax-writing ways and means committee, summed it up at the rules committee hearing:

"We have been dealing with little kittens while the fat cats are still roaming around the neighborhood. We still don't have a tax reform program affecting every major loophole."

Rep. Lloyd Meeds, the Washington State Democrat, put it another way:

"Every day I receive letters asking why our taxes should be increased while the big corporations and the millionaires are getting special treatment because of loopholes."

Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., also spoke out bluntly as the ways land means group was preparing to report the administration's surtax extension bill behind closed doors.

"We have never taken a roll call vote in this committee on needed tax reforms," she complained. "Nor do we have any real assurances or indications that the committee will act on tax reforms."

The nine committee Democrats who voted "no" behind closed doors were: Vanik, Mrs. Griffiths, Reps. Al Ullman, Ore., Phil Landrum, Ga., Richard Fulton, Tenn., Jacob Gilbert, N.Y., James Corman, Calif., William Green, Pa., and Sam Gibbons, Fla.

The 16 who voted for reporting the surtax extension bill were Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., who said he would oppose the bill on the floor, and Democrats Wilbur Mills, Ark., the chairman, Hale Boggs, La., John Watts, Ky., James Burke, Mass., and Omar Burleson, Tex.

Also, Republicans John Byrnes, Wis., James Utt, Calif., Jackson Betts, Ohio, Herman Schneebeli, Pa., Harold Collier, Ill., Joel Broyhill, Va., Barber Conable, N.Y., George Bush, Tex., Rogers Morton, Md., and Charles Chamberlain, Mich.

Former First Lady's Spending Habits

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy, who once ridiculed reports that she spent $30,000 a year on clothes, actually spent just over $40,000 on clothes in 1961, says her former personal secretary.

Mrs. Kennedy's passion for clothes and battles with the family budget when she was First Lady are among the topics covered by Mary Barelli Gallagher in her book, "My Life with Jacqueline Kennedy."

"It always amazed me," Mrs. Gallagher writes in an excerpt in the current Ladies Home Journal, "that Jackie spent more in a year on family expenses than the President's salary of $100,000."

In 1962, she writes, Mrs. Kennedy spent $121,461.61 on family expenses and President John F. Kennedy called in a family friend and financial adviser to straighten out the family bookkeeping.

The ensuing economy move led Mrs. Kennedy, now Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, to order the White House staff to restrict guests at official functions to two cocktails apiece, Mrs. Gallagher writes.

Mrs. Gallagher recalls that during the 1960 presidential campaign when a story broke "that Jackie was spending $30,000 a year for her clothes, she retorted, 'I would have to wear sable underwear to spend that much'."

Ann Landers

Neighbor's Son Needs Training

Dear Ann Landers: The people next door bought a puppy for their three-year-old son. The puppy is so small you can hold it in the palm of your hand.

The kid is torturing that helpless animal. He drags it around on a string and I'm afraid he'll break its little neck. I've seen the boy squeeze the puppy and drop him on his head. When the puppy cries, it really tears me up.

I think it is terrible for parents to give a small child a pet before he knows how to take care of it. This little kid doesn't know the difference between a live animal and the stuffed toys he's been playing with.

I pleaded with mom to call the Humane Society but she doesn't want any trouble with the neighbors. When I said I'd call she yelled, "Don't you dare."

I can't go against my mother's word, but I am sick of seeing that puppy tortured. Please tell me what to do. -- Pat. G.

Dear Pat: Go to the neighbors and tell them what you told me. Sometimes adults can learn from children, and this is one of those times. The parents need to have this situation brought to their attention and I'm sure you're the person who can do it. Good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: I have accepted an engagement ring from a wonderful young man. We decided to marry before he goes into the service.

I get a little sick inside when I think of Hugh meeting some of my relatives I have a couple of aunts and uncles who don't know how to dress. Also, their table manners are appalling and their grammar is atrocious. They say such things as "Hain't you seen it before?" They talk too loud and laugh like hyenas. I hate for Hugh and his family to meet these slobs but I must invite them. Is there something I can say to prepare Hugh and his people for these offensive boors? -- Dreading It

Dear Dread: Offensiveness must run in your family. Your sound like a social-climbing little creep to me.

So what if your relatives aren't up on how to dress, and their table manners and grammar leave something to be desired? They're your relatives and you should make no apologies for them. Get wise to yourself before Hugh has to make apologies for YOU, Kiddo.

Dear Ann Landers: I've heard it said that when a marriage goes on the rocks the rocks are usually in the mattress. I don't want this to happen to me. I am being married soon to a wonderful man. I have had no sex experience to speak of and I'm scared to death I will be a great disappointment. How can a woman be a good sex partner if she has had no experience? They say practice makes perfect. I want to be perfect but I don't want to practice -- in advance, that is. Please help me. -- Lily

Dear Lil: Practice does not necessarily make perfect -- when it comes to sex, that is.

Sometimes it just makes people tired. Don't worry about technique, Doll. Let your instincts guide you. If you and your finance are really in love you can develop the technique later.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Nor Are The Teachers Idle This Summer!

BY SUSAN SHEMWELL
Feature Writer

Sikeston High School is in summer recess, but many Sikeston teachers have not faded into the book shelves to reappear in September waving red pencils and class roll books. When the last 3:30 bell was ringing, many of them were thinking about vacation plans, college graduate work and home repairs. Some of the most active teachers during the nine month school year have not slowed their momentum during the summer months.

"Our son wants to see the Indians," Mrs. H. G. Tenkhoff, art teacher, said. She and her family plan to travel to Yellowstone National Park and camp along the way in an Apache trailer. "Boots" Tenkhoff, her husband and three children are afraid of bears and will park their camper in Montana towns when they reach the wild country.

The wild country is not for Mrs. Tim Garner, SHS secretarial training teacher. She is working on her master's degree driving to Cape Girardeau daily to study two University of Missouri extention courses.

Murray Sullivan, a biology teacher, was thinking about fishing while he was earning this year's Jaycee Outstanding Young Educator award. "My wife keeps me pretty busy putting up shelves for school-books and refinishing furniture," he said. But, when the chores are finished, he plans to take his fishing boat and 14 foot runabout to Chute Number Seven near Hickman Ferry on the Mississippi River. When Sullivan has harvested all of the tomatoes from his "token" garden, he will probably be found around a lake near the Ohio River, or at Brewer's Lake near Charleston.

Mrs. Wilma Young, home economics teacher, has not stopped seeing students every day. She has been visiting the girls in her classes for the last two weeks supervising their home projects. Refinishing furniture, painting, redecorating, child development and food projects are all on Mrs. Young's students' programs. After attending a Missouri home economics meeting Aug. 11-15, Mrs. Young plans to visit a brother in Mississippi whom she hasn't been for 10 years.

Travel makes Richard Powell, music teacher and band director, tune in. He is now repairing band and orchestra instruments in an attic reached by a fire escape on the side of his downtown Music Mart. As he trims cork horn liners and repairs about 450 instruments this summer, Powell is looking forward to a two- boat trip from St. Louis to New Orleans late in August.

Coach N. P. McDaniel, new SETA president, is out of town already. The American Legion Baseball team tht he manages this summer after he finishes teaching driver's education in the mornings, will probably miss him while he is a local delegate to the Philadelphia Teacher's Association this week.

"If I can get two free weeks to work on my stamp collection, I'll be happy." Fred Huff, SHS librarian, said. He is now working with three helpers cataloging about 1200 new library books and processing 100 new text books for the fall semester, and does not expect to get to the stamps for several weeks.

Gene Dawson, American history teacher and SHS golf coach, prefers the out-of-doors for his summer work. He manages the Sikeston Country Club Pro Shop with his wife and before they take their cosmetology exams in Jefferson City, Adams plans to go camping with his wife and four children in a trailer complete with a stove and sleeping space for eight people.

These teachers are filling their summers with experiences that will help them in the fall, when the school term begins. They are organizing their house-holds, taking time to relax and getting a vigorous start on classwork again.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice to Consumers of Certain Broad Spectrum Antibiotics

The State of Missouri, through its Attorney General, John C. Danforth, has pending a legal action in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York against certain drug companies (Chas. Pfizer & Co., Inc., American Cyanamid Company, Bristol-Myers Company, Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation (Squibb) and The Upjohn Company) alleging that those companies violated the antitrust laws in the sale of certain of their broad spectrum antibiotic products within the period 1954-1966. On May 26, 1969, the Court determined that the Attorney General was the proper representative of a statewide class which included all members of the public who purchased the Aureomycin, Terramycin and tetracycline products[1] of those companies in the State during the stated period.

The companies, while denying liability, have made a nationwide offer of 100 million dollars in settlement of all claims that any State or local governmental entity, drug wholesaler, retail pharmacist or member of the consuming public within the United States or Puerto Rico might have against them arising from purchases of broad spectrum antibiotic products during the stated period. On behalf of the State and the governmental entities and consuming public within the State, your Attorney General has elected to participate in that settlement subject to the establishment of appropriate allocations of this fund under supervision of the Court.

Now, therefore, take notice:

1. If you have purchased any of these drugs within the period 1954-1966:

a) The Court will exclude you from the class represented by the Attorney General if you request exclusion in writing addressed to the undersigned at P.O. Box 727, Bronx, New York 10451, and postmarked not later than August 1, 1969. If you elect to be excluded from the class, you will be free to pursue on your own behalf whatever legal rights you may have.

b) If you do not request exclusion from the class by August 1, 1969, you will be included in such class and any judgment, whether favorable or not, including any judgment approving any settlement of this action, will be binding upon you.

2. If you do not request exclusion from the class by August 1, 1969:

a) You may make a claim to receive directly a share as approved by the Court of any funds received by the Attorney General as representative of the members of the consuming public within the State. In order to make such a claim you must file with the undersigned[2] at P.O. Box 727, Bronx, New York 10451 by August 16, 1969, either a verified statement or a statement certified by your local pharmacist or other supplier showing by year the total dollar amount of the Aureomycin, Terramycin and tetracycline products purchased by you; the name of each such product and the name and address of the pharmacy or other place where each such product was purchased;[3] and if you have been reimbursed on account of such purchases, by whom and how much. Your statement must include your residence or post office address and you may later be required to produce written proof of your purchases; or

b) If you do not make an individual claim by August 16, 1969, that will constitute an authorization to the Attorney General to utilize whatever money he may recover as your representative for the benefit of the citizens of your State in such manner as the Court may direct.

3. If you do not request exclusion from the class but prefer in connection with your individual claim to be represented by your own counsel rather than by the Attorney General, you may enter an appearance through your counsel but not later than August 1, 1969.

Clerk of the United States District Court
Southern District of New York
P.O. Box 727, Bronx, N.Y. 10451

[1]Tetracycline products are sold under the following names among others: Achromycin, Mysteclin, Panalba, Panmycin, Polycycline, Steclin, Tetracyn and Tetrex.

[2]If you reside outside the State, send your claim to P.O. Box 752, Bronx, New York 10451.

[3]The Attorney General of your State will forward claims on account of purchases made outside the State to the Attorneys General of the states in which such purchases were made, provided such states are participating in the settlement.

LITTLE LEAGUERS

Legion and Mutual of Omaha remained undefeated last night as both squads took their ninth win of the season. John Deere and Kiwanis also came out in the winner's column.

John Deere took its win from KSIM 16-5 with only two hits being accumulated by each of the squads.

Second Musial contest saw Mutual of Omaha breeze past Malone and Hyde 19-1. Jackson became Mutual's big boost as he pitched a no-hitter, collected two hits and scored two runs.

Kiwanis swept over Jaycees 12-5 in the National opener with Cobb hitting a home run.

Legion bettered its unblemished slate as it downed the Lions 801 with the pitcher, Stokes, collecting four hits and two runs besides pitching a no-hitter.

Stokes also came through with the only extra base hits of the game as he belted a double and a home run.

Post Wins

By DALE A. LEWIS

In Fastpitch Softball action yesterday, First National Bank jumped on Cooney Equipment for three runs in the first inning and went on to a 6-4 win.

Cooney had opened the game with a single tally in the top half of the inning without the benefit of a base hit. First National put together two triples, a double, and a single in their half to take a lead they never relinquished.

A single tally in the second inning and two more in the fourth wrapped up the ballgame for the bank, while Cooney picked up singles on the fourth, fifth, and seventh innings.

For First National, it was P. Ledbetter, L. Cooper, D. White, and K. Plunk providing the key blows with two triples, three doubles, and a single among them. B. Headlee also contributed an RBI single.

Cooney could manage only six hits off First National's Dean Riley, with only two of them going for extra bases. R. Holder lined a triple to center in the fifth and J. Long doubled to left in the seventh. With last night's victory, First National moved back into a first place tie with Budweiser for the Capitol Division lead.

In yesterday's night-cap, the Bank of Sikeston unveiled another new pitcher and before Presley Travel Trailers could solve his curveball, they had absorbed a 9 to 4 shellacking.

Bud Bain, putting on his red uniform for the first time last night, held Preseley scoreless the first five innings. Allowing only three singles and one base on balls.

Mealwhile, the Bank of Sikeston was putting together five doubles, a triple, and four singles for an 8 to nothing lead going into the sixth.

Apparently tiring in the last innings, Bain gave Preseley two runs in both the sixth and seventh innings, while his team-mates added one more for themselves and the final 9 to 4 victory. J. Burden, J, Sherry, L. Burden, D. Garner, D. Kern, and L. Harshberger produced the run - scoring hits for the Bank of Sikeston. J. Shuffit, R. Blackman, and B. Blair accounted for the Presley scoring

Fast Pitch Softball action resumes Wednesday night at 7 p.m. with Sikeston Light and Water hosting First National Bank and in the 8:30 contest, it's Budweiser greeting Cooney Equipment.

The Dirty Seven

The movies have given us "The Dirty Dozen" and "The Magnificent Seven" and "Twelve Angry Men," but now scientists are talking about "The Dirty Seven."

They don't come from Hollywood, these unsavory seven. They come from cans and bottles and they could be killing us all. They are the so-called "hard" pesticides being used all across the nation today.

They are called "hard" pesticides because they are persistent -- their poisonous effects last and last, their chemical composition doesn't break down for long periods of time. They tend to build up residues in the fatty portions of animals and birds.

Their names are DDT, Lindane, Dieldrin, Aldrin, Endrin, Chlordane and Heptachlor. Some may take as long as 20 years to break down. Some of the first warnings against DDT came out long enough ago that the DDT sprayed then is just about breaking down now.

But there have been further tons of the deadly stuff sprayed since then and some agencies still advocate using it, though there are safe; chemical sprays available.

Dr. James Whitley of the Department of Conservation recommends that pesticides be used only when necessary rather than on a routine basis, since the use of any pesticide is often accompanied by undesirable side effects of some sort.

Biological control of many pests is possible and deserve wider application. Organic phosphate insecticide or carbamate can be used safely in many cases if they are selected specifically for the particular application. These materials decompose rapidly and normally do not pose long term hazards to the total environment.

The Department of Conservation primarily is concerned with the effect pesticides have on the state's animals, fish and birds, but, being people too, Department scientists also wonder about the effects on human beings.

There are suspicions, backed by scientific data, that pesticide residues in humans can cause disease, such as cancer, could lead to genetic change or could have a long term effect on certain organs of the body.

In birds of prey, such as the bald eagle, DDT concentrations in the fish they eat either can kill the bird outright or affect its ability to produce calcium for eggshells. There has been one egg found with no shell at all. Eagle populations are dwindling, along with numbers of other fish eating birds such as the peregrine falcon.

Slowly, but surely, here are bans being imposed on the use of various pesticides. Arizona and Michigan have imposed bans on DDT and Wisconsin is trying for one.

The United States Department of Agriculture has cancelled federal registration of lindane insecticide products in vaporizing devices because of "undue risk to the health of persons chronically exposed to the vapors."

Bertrand, Parma Post Babe Ruth Wins

Parma's 6-4 victory over Vanduser last night threw the leadership of the Four-County Babe Ruth League into a three-way tie between Bertrand, Vanduser and Parma.

Bertrand remained in contention for the leadership with a 6-0 win at Bell City last night.

Larry Green collected the victory, allowing five hits, two to losing hurler, Steve Tropf.

Mike Crosno tripled in two runs and had two of Bertrand's seven hits.

Jeff Jackson pitched a three hitter, allowing all three safties in the first three innings, as Parma ran its record to 6-2.

Both teams scored three runs in the third frame, Parma on four hits and Vanduser on two. Parma added its fourth run in the fourth inning and held Vanduser scoreless until the sixth when it pushed a run across on three Parma errors.

Parma's winning tallies came to the sixth when it sent two runs across.

Wendall Wagner had three RBI's for the game, going two for four at the plate. Both were doubles and came in the third and sixth innings with two runners on.

Doyle Crews had two hits for the winners.

League play continues July 7 with Parma scheduled at Bell City and Vanduser at Bertrand.

KC's Post Win At East Prairie

CHARLESTON — The Knights of Columbus Little League baseball team posted a 13-10 win over McMikle here last night after which Ford Impliment its Babe Ruth game won by forfeit as French Impliments players failed to show.

John Trousdale pitched a five hitter, striking out 12 for the victory. Kevin Rolwing was the loser, allowing eight hits and fanning nine.

Dale Morgan homered for the winners while teammate Danny Marshall singled, doubled and tripled.

David Weakley homered and tripled for McMikle, driving in four runs.

Three Little League games are scheduled tonight with Ponder and Lions set in the 6 p.m. opener at A. D.Simpson Park. The V.F.W. team meets Waggernerat 7:30 p.m. and the Jaycees face Kiwanis at 9 p.m.

Cards Continue Skid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Happy days are here again for the fledgling Kansas City Royals, but the slumping St. Louis Cardinals still can't find the winning combination.

The Royals notched their fourth victory in five games and climbed to within one game of fourth - place Chicago in the American League's West Division with a 2-1 victory over the California Angels.

Kansas City did it with a twoout, last-of-the-ninth home run off the bat of Lou Piniella. It was the 15th time this season the Royals have won a game in their last time at bat.

Meanwhile, the Cardinals surrendered six runs to the New York Mets in the first inning and went on to a 10-2 defeat in Busch Stadium. It was St. Louis' fourth straight loss and dropped the Cards six games below .500.

Piniella belted a 3-2 pitch from Rudy May 350 feet over the left field fence to hand the Royals their victory.

Kansas City had scored in the fourth on singles by Mike Fiore and Bob Oliver, plus Piniella's sacrifice fly, but California tied it in the seventh on Jay Johnstone's double and Rick Reichard't's single.

The game was delayed 35 minutes by rain between the fifth and sixth.

Moe Drabowsky pitched the ninth inning in relief of Roger Nelson and got the victory, making his record 6-5.

Jerry Grote slammed a threerun homer to cap the Mets' sixrun outburst against the Cardinals in the first inning.

New York had already touched starter Nelson Briles for three runs, then Grote greeted reliever Ray Washburn with his homer.

Jim McAndrews shook off home runs by Joe Torre and Dal Maxvill to three - hit he Cards.

Vic Davalillo, erstwhile American League outfielder with Cleveland and California, tried his hand at pitching in the ninth inning for St. Louis.

His mound debut was not impressive. He gave up a walk to Tommie Agee and single to Bobby Pfeil before being replaced.

Both the Royals and Cardinals entertain the same foes tonight.

One Hitter Booked For Harts Bread

Francis recorded a one-hitter to no avail in Babe Ruth play last night as Anchor Toy was still able to overcome Hart's by a margin of 7-1.

Breedlove became the winning pitcher as he allowed four hits. Only extra base hit of the battle was a double by Walker.

Remaining contest at VFW stadium saw Home Materials edge Reiss Dairy 5-4. This was another low-hitting battle as Home Materials collected only three hits and Reiss Dairy came up with five.

Mitchel received the win from the mound and Collins suffered the loss.

Farm Tours Next Week

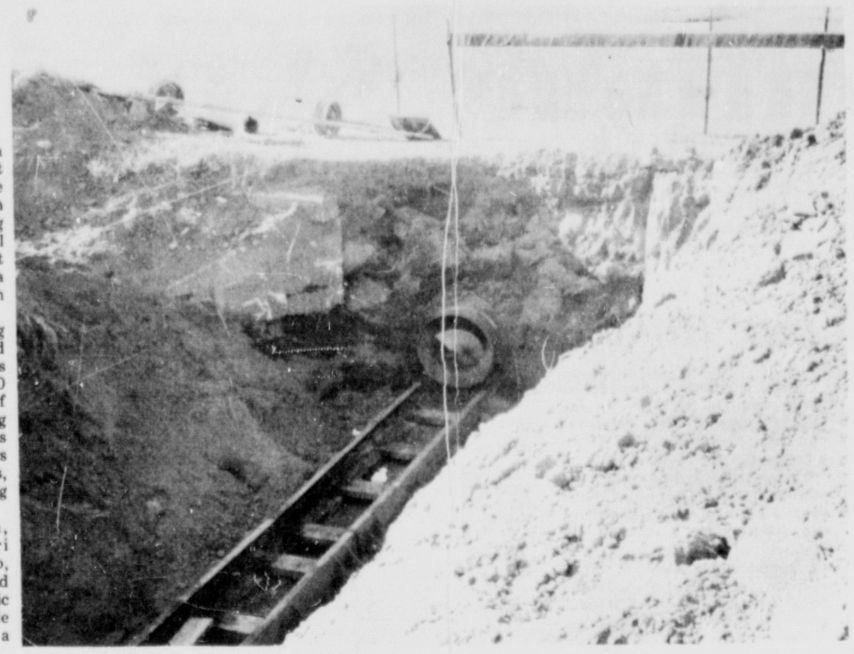
A field day at the Delta Center in Portageville will be at 9 a.m. July 9, to demonstrate vegetable production on Missouri REsearch farms during the first year of the Bootheel Economic Development Council's program to attract a vegetable processing plant in Southeast Missouri.

Several vegetable processing firms are expected to send representatives to tour plots which include about 100 varieties of tomatoes, varieties of processing and fresh marketing types of cucumbers, string beans and carrots. There will be tours of Wendell Choate Farms, Dorena, sweet corn now being harvested.

Dr. Victor Lambeth, University of Missouri horticulturist, Henry Dicarlo, Bootheel area horticulturist and Ted Hull, Bootheel Economic Development Council vegetable consultant will speak at a briefing before the hours.

The three to five-year research program began this spring with Hull contacting 36 vegetable processing firms, and is continuing this summer with efforts to demonstrate Semo's ability to produce quantity and quality of processable vegetables, J. B. Martin, Bootheel Economic Development Council director, said.

"The result the development council wants from this program is to have a processing plant like Del Monte or Green Giant in this area." Martin said.



CONSTRUCTION OF A FORCE MAIN is underway at West Malone and Ingram Road and will be extended south to the sewage treatment plant. The project should be completed within two months.

Ronald Slayton

Slain Soldier Receives Medals

The late Spec. 4 Ronald D. Slayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Slayton, 1514 East Gladys St., has been awarded, posthumously, the Air Medal (First through Fifth Oak Leaf Clusters, Fifth Oak Leaf Cluster for heroism) and the Purple Heart.

The Air Medal was awarded for "exceptionally valorous actions on Jan. 15, 1969, while serving as door gunner of a helicopter carrying U.S. Marine Corps commanders engaged in directing their elements in a fierce battle.

"He courageously returned the enemy fire while the helicopter was being flown dangerously low to afford the commanders a better vantage point from which to direct their men."

Spec. 4 Slayton was killed Jan. 15.

His parents and his brother, Jerry Clayton, Memphis, Tenn., received these awards May 23, in Fort Leonard Wood.

Prior to his death, Spec. 4 Slayton was awarded the Air Medal, National Defense Service Medal, Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Ribbon and the Expert Badge with rifle bar.

Spec. 4 Slayton had been in Vietnam since March, 1968.

Courtroom Witness Stand to Get Miniskirt Shield

OPELIKA, Ala. (AP) — They're going to build a shield around the witness stand in the Lee County Courtroom because of miniskirts.

The Pilot Club, a woman's organization, campaigned for the view- blocking shield. Several county commissioners opposed the move but the commission voted its approval Friday.

One commissioner said the shield would save money by speeding up trials and hearings.

Senate Defeats Earnings Tax

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Senate Monday defeated a bill that would have let all cities over 2,000 population enact an earnings tax.

The 15-10 vote against the measure reflected oppositon by metropolitan area legislators who said it would not have given cities bordering on the larger cities any appreciable income.

It was originally intended only for certain cities, the sponsor said, specifically excluding those municipalities bordering on metropolitan areas.

An amendment was adopted, however, to let any city from 2,000 to 450,000 population enact an earnings tax of ½ of 1 per cent on voter approval.

This is no accident

But you're our witness, anyway—to a piece-ful demonstration of how quickly and easily Maverick can be taken apart and put together. We designed Maverick that way for a good reason. When you're paying by the hour for service or repairs, speed is important. And at times like this, nothing can beat a simple machine.

Most new cars are more and more complicated. And more expensive to care for. Maverick's so simple to service, you can do it yourself—if you really mean it about being independent.

You won't feel like an orphan either. Our Owner's Manual shows you how to handle all the routine service. You can tune and time your engine, change plugs and points, adjust the idle, the headlamps, the handbrakes, do nearly 40 different service operations.

And if you crease a fender or crack a grille, you can almost smile. Maverick's front fenders bolt on and grilles are replaceable in minutes. And where time means money, fast means savings.

Stop in once every 36,000 miles for a lube job. Oil changes are 6,000 miles apart. (The leading import suggests oil changes twice as often and lube jobs every 6,000 miles.)

While still being simple, Maverick is big enough to take the whole family—without streaming luggage from the roof. It's small enough to park easily, and go light on gas. A 105-hp Six gives you real passing power. (You get 52 more horsepower than the leading import offers.) And the wider stance gives you a smoother ride, better handling and roadability.

It's no accident that Maverick is the hottest selling new car to come along in five years. We designed it that way. See it at your Ford Dealer's.

LEGISLATURE RESTORES FUNDS SO STATE FAIR CAN HAVE FULL RUN

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. --- The state fair will be held this year.

State Agriculture Commissioner Dexter D. Davis said last week that enough money had been appropriated by the legislature to provide for a full run of the fair.

The legislature had recommended cuts in the state fair budget which would have seriously endangered the fair's existence this year. But last week a joint Senate-House conference committee restored about 85 per cent of the Department of Agriculture's budget cuts.

The conference committee's report has already been accepted by both houses of the legislature.

When asked if the state fair was supposed to be self-supporting, Davis said: "In theory and in practice the state fair is supposed to be subsidized by the state."

Davis said the state fair receives two appropriations. The first is an appropriation from the General Revenue fund for the fair. Last year $250, 870 was appropriated from general revenue for the fair.

The second appropriation is from the state fair fee funds. Last year the appropriation amounted to $488,561. This money is raised at the fair by gate receipts and other fees.

Davis said that the total amount taken in at the fair usually exceeds this appropriations so the remainder goes back to the general revenue fund of the state.

Last year the state fair took in more than $588,000, with about $100,000 of that going back into the general revenue fund. So, when that figure is deducted from the $250,00 general revenue appropriation, it leaves the state a $150,000 bill for last year's state fair.

Davis says he thinks the fair should be state-subsidized. "It is a great thing for Missouri, not only in agriculture, but in industry," Davis says. Last year more than 350,000 persons attended the state fair and viewed exhibits provided more than 15,000 exhibitors.

"I feel the state is really getting its money's worth on the fair, Davis says. "Agriculture is still the number one industry in Missouri and it is important to keep people from Kansas City and St. Louis informed about it," he said.

But Davis says the state fair should become more concerned with other industrial exhibits. "I would like to see the state fair turn into a trade fair where buyers from all over the world would come to buy Missouri products," Davis said.

MEAT INSPECTION PROGRAM IN LEGISLATIVE LIMBO

There are some differences of opinion in Jefferson City about the future of Missouri's meat inspection program.

Sen. J.F. Patterson (D-Caruthersville) said the meat inspection program would be taken over by the Federal government in December of 1969 last week at a press conference.

Patterson held the press conference to announce the results of a House-Senate conference committee on appropriations. He said that the money for the meat inspection program had been restored to the budget with the understanding that when the Federal government takes it over, the money appropriated will go back to the State treasury.

Earlier, $800,000 had been cut from the Agriculture Department budget, which would have eliminated the meat inspection program.

Dexter D. Davis, state agriculture commissioner, said last week, however, that he had no intentions of ending the meat inspection program in December, 1969.

"I think it would be unconstitutional for me to cut out the state meat inspection program," he said.

"If Sen. Patterson wants to cut out the meat inspection program, he should work for repeal of the law creating meat inspection," Davis said.

Davis said it wasn't in his power to end any sort of programs. He said if a letter from the legislature directed him to end the program he would ask the attorney general for an opinion on the issue.

Davis says Missouri's meat inspection program -- along with California's and Wisconsin's -- is one of the best in the nation. "Our inspection program is considered a model program," Davis said.

Dr. Harlan D. Ellis, an employee of the Federal government on loan to the state, has helped set up Missouri's meat inspection program. "I don't know anything about the Federal government taking over meat inspection in Missouri," Ellis says. He says the Federal government prefers that states maintain their own programs.

Currently the Missouri inspection program is 50 per cent financed by the Federal government. Ellis says Missouri was the sixth state in the nation to begin a meat inspection program.

Ellis says that if the legislature had cut out the funds for the meat inspection program, the Federal government would have moved in and taken over the program in December of 1969. "It would have been several months before it could actually begin operating a program, however," Elis said.

Ellis said a Federal meat inspection would be geared to the federal government's needs only -- not Missouri consumers.

Davis said he definitely believe the current meat inspection program is better for Missouri consumers than an all Federal program.

So, Missouri will continue to have a state meat inspection program for at least one more year.

Meat inspection technicians inspect all 450 slaughtering houses, processing plants and frozen food locker plants in the state. The 68 inspectors llast year inspected 200,000 animals and more than 70 million pounds of processed meat consumed in Missouri -- just from small processing plants alone.

This is the key to the state meat inspection program -- it is geared to serve Missouri consumers. Ellis said a Federal program would not have been as interested in in-state commerce as in meat which crosses state lines.

Many of the small plants would not have been inspected at all under an all Federal program, leaving Missouri consumers at the mercy of the processors with respect to the quality of their meat.

Farm Labor Bulletin

JEFFERSON CITY — Hay harvest in full swing, planting of corn and soybeans continues as weather permits. Wheat harvest and cotton chopping reached its peak in the Bootheel. Some hail damage in Forbes area of Holt County. Most seasonal labor demands being met by school youth. However, 63 year-round farm openings reported and six dairy openings.

Cape Girardeau - Labor supply and demand in balance for local area. Main activities are tractor driving and hay hauling. Need cannery laborers for work in Wisconsin. Must be 18 years of age to qualify. Immediate employment. Work will be all summer.

Caruthersville - Wheat harvest is at its peak and will probably be completed within the next few days. Labor demand is light as most seasonal work is being done by on-the - farm labor.

Kennett - Wheat harvest reached its peak this week with soybeans being planted following the wheat. Extra help was needed during this period and local office filled all orders. Cotton chopping also peaked with local office placing over 300 choppers. Cotton, watermelon and cantaloupe crops look good--cleaner crops than can be remembered. Some early peaches being harvested and more will be next week.

Poplar Bluff — Wheat harvest now going on with yields of 35 to 40 bushels per acre. Rain is badly needed over this office area. Labor in balance in this area. Eleven have been referred to canning industry.

Sikeston - Wheat harvest just getting started. Some farmers are waiting for lower moisture content. This will delay planting soybeans behind wheat. There is an adequate labor supply, but no workers willing to leave area for work.

British Writer: 'Your Cause Is Ours'

by Bernard Levin

A well-known British journalist and TV commentator tells the British that their everyday freedoms depend on the success of the American cause in Vietnam.

I spent yesterday evening at the opera (Wagner, of course). You, I dare say, spent it helping your children with their homework, or watching television, or learning the piano, or reading a book.

A lot of Americans and South Vietnamese, however, spent it dying. Strange to relate (and I imagine that many of them could find it strange as anyone), they spent it dying so that you can go on watching television, learning the piano, reading books and helping the children with their homework, and so that I can go on listening to Wagner.

I don't know about you, but I am grateful, and will now say why. A battle was launched in Vietnam . . . which bands of North Vietnames and Viet Cong swept through South Vietnamese towns, killing and pillaging . . . .

It is not, I believe, too fanciful to describe the battle as potentially one of the major turning - points of civilization, and to think of General Westmoreland and his men in the way that, with the perspective of history to aid us, we think of Leonidas and the Spartans at Thermopylae, John Sobieski facing the Turks at the gates of Vienna, or Lord Dowding and Fighter Command in the Battle of Britain. For each of those battles changed the face of the world for the better; or rather, prevented others from changing it for the worse.

And so it may be at this moment in Vietnam. The war there is confused and horrible; it aims blurred, its methods savage, its cost in innocent blood uncountable.

But if it is lost, if the Americans finally get tired of doing the world's work for nothing but the world's abuse, if South Vietnam is left to its fate, then what will follow is not merely the piecemeal engulfing of the rest of Southeast Asia. What will follow, as surely as Austria followed the Rhineland, and Czechoslavakia followed Austria, and Poland followed Czechoslovakia, and six years of world war followed Poland, is a nuclear confrontation on a global scale between the forces at present engaged in one tiny corner of the globe.

And that, in the end, is why my Wagner and your children are at stake this day in "a far-off country of which we know nothing." The Americans are not fighting the war there so that Saigon racketeers can grow fat on black market profits; indeed, they're only secondarily fighting it so that Saigon may stay free long enough for a society to grow up there that will be strong enough to dispense with the racketeers.

They are not even there because if they leave they will one day be digging gun emplacements in California, as the Australians will be digging them around Darwin.

They are there because they know that, where aggression is concerned, the appetite doth grow by what it feeds on; and because they therefore know that, however great the price of the war in Vietnam, it is still less than would be the price of the war we will all one day have to fight elsewhere if it is lost.

The Americans and the South Vietnamese are not alone in knowing this. The Australians and New Zealanders know it; the Thailanders know it; the South Koreans know it; the Filipinos know it. But in this country (Britain), it seems, we do not know it.

Well, it is time we did. And the battle now going on in Vietnam is as good a time to find out as we shall ever have. On this battle, the Communist forces have staked a great deal; for some time now they have been promising their increasingly disillusioned troops that one last push will see victory — if not military victory, then "victory - by - coalition."

The Communist strategy in Vietnam is to inflict such a major reverse on the Americans and South Vietnamese that they will be desperate to make peace even at te price of an agreement that gives the Communists a share in the government of South Vietnam, with the full take-over following a few months later.

I do not think that the American resolve will crack. But a word of thanks and admiration from Britain may help to show America that her resolve is recognized for what it is — a resolve to hold the front for civilization, by convincing those who would destroy it that they are not going to succeed in doing so.

I would prefer our thanks to come from our government. Unfortunately, it won't. Nor will it even come from our Opposition (party). So it has to come from us — from those of us who recognize the connection between what the Americans are doing in South Vietnam and what we like to do with our evenings in Britain.

We are not, I believe, all that few. But few or many, let me now say on behalf of us all, to the Americans and South Vietnamese and their allies, even now fighting and dying in Vietnam:

"Our words may be useless, but they are all we have to offer. We understand why you are there, and know that your cause is ours too. And we thank you.

Dexter Youth Attends Camp

LIBERTY, Mo. – Michael Bader, son of Mrs. Louis Bader Route 1, Dexter, last week attended the twenty-third annual CO-OP Youth Leadership Camp on the William Jewell College campus here.

He was among some 600 outstanding rural youth who attended the champ's three sessions - June 9-1, June 16-20, June 23-27.

Campers are sponsored by local cooperatives and youth organizations. The camp program is designed to develop leadership abilities, to teach good citizenship, to increase understanding of farmer cooperatives and to provide plenty of fun.

Farmland Industries, with headquarters in nearby Kansas City, sponsors this event.

Youth at camp are from fourteen Midwestern states which have farmer cooperatives that own and operate Farmland Industries, a regional cooperative manufacturing petroleum, feed, fertilizer and other farm supplies.

Campers arrived at William Jewell on Monday in time for registration, games and swimming. Tuesday morning they toured Farmland Industries facilities in the Kansas City area. From Tuesday afternoon through Friday, they took part in regular camp activities ranging from athletics to discussion groups. Campers learn how a cooperative functions by organizing and operating a CO-OP canteen during their camping period.

Rural Fire Dues Payable Today

CHARLESTON - Dues for the Rural Fire Association are payable today, it was announced at City Hall here today.

Membership is $5.00 per year.

A new piece of fire fighting equipment was bought several years ago, in 1965 at a cost of approximately $12,000. The idea was then, and still is, to amortize this debt by the continuing sale of Rural Fire Association memberships at $5.00 per year.

The membership was originaly $250, but this figure has decreased some in the past four years.

One other rule is also misunderstood according to Fire Chief Joe Johnson, and that is that each fire run to the homestead of a member will mean an assessment of $100.

By attaching a rider to existing fire insurance policies the fire insurance company pays this $100, "but many of our members have either forgotten about this clause, or else it was not thoroughly explained to them in the first place," Chief Johnson said.

The local fire department is under orders from the City Council not to respond to rural fire calls unless the family involved has a membership in the Rural Fire Association.

Stamps do not have to be old to be valuable. At the recently held INTERPEX in New York, 11 Walt Disney 6¢ U.S. stamps with one color missing were sold for more than $5,000. A single stamp of the Disney issue with the black color entirely missing sold for $900. On the same day, sale of 20 of the 1968 U.S. 6¢ Christmas stamps with the light yellow color missing, including a vertical plate block of 10, sold for $2,055.

THE MAIL BAG: Doug and Bob England of Marion, Ohio, who enjoy reading the column in the Columbus Dispatch, and are new collectors, inquired as to what monies should be sent to obtain first-day covers of U.S. stamps. A money order (no checks or stamps), for the face value of the stamps to be affixed should be sent to the postmaster as indicated. If you desire a cover of a new 6-cent stamp, a self-addressed envelope plus a money order for the 6 center should be enclosed in an outer envelope to the postmaster.

To James L. Williams of Onalaska, Wis., an old stamp is not necessarily valuable. I suggest that you show it to a stamp dealer in your area. An interesting magazine on the hobby is "Stamps." The address of this weekly publication is 153 Waverly Pl., New York, N.Y. 10014.

It isn't often that a nation behind the Iron Curtain issues stamps praising the United States. But Hungary has just issued a souvenir sheet dedicated to the Apollo 8 flight. The sheet bears the names of U.S. astronauts Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders. At the right is the date of the flight and, in Hungarian, "The man in Proximity to the Moon." The illustration features the Apollo 8 zooming around the moon and the earth.

Apple Drying In Ozarks Has Modern Twist

Many strangers tread the path to the door of Mr. and Mrs. Elba Pyles in Carthage. They are searching for a good piece of fried, dried, apple pie "like granny used to make."

It all began when Pyles, known as "Shorty" to his friends, decided that dried apples, found in the supermarkets, did not look or taste like the ones he remembered eating when he was a boy in the hills of Arkansas.

The reason much fruit was preserved by drying then was the scarcity and expensiveness of canning jars. Not one kitchen in the whole community boasted of the gleaming white freezer that is a must in the kitchens of today.

Pyles recalled seeing his mother peel apples and slice them, preparing them for the drying process. It was his job to climb onto the roof and spread them to dry. No moisture, either dew or rain, could fall on the fruit during the drying process. Thus, it all had to be removed from the roof each evening and returned to its place in the sun the following morning. It was a lot of trouble, he said, but by now he had begun to think it was worth it.

He took the matter up with his wife, who enjoys cooking and is never happier than when preparing big meals for those she loves. She remembered that her mother used to fry the small "halfmoon" pies and agreed to try it if he would furnish the dried apples. Only sun dried fruit would do it "just right."

Shorty found exactly the kind of apples he wanted for the project, at a near-by market. Jonathan or Ben Davis hold their shape and do not begin to spoil before they form the crust around them as the drying begins.

Next was to figure out a way to get them in and out of the sun without having to climb onto the roof, 65-year-old legs were not quite as agile as they had been 50 years ago. He solved the problem by driving his car into a sunny spot on the front law. He placed cloths on the top, on the hood and the trunk of the car. Then, when the apples had been peeled and sliced (about eight slices each) he placed the fruit carefully on the cloths.

The sun was right and the apples began to take on a different shade and to shrink. When the morning had passed and the shadows had began to creep over the drying fruit, Shorty climbed into the car and drove it around into the sun again on a different part of the lawn. No moving apples onto and off of a roof. He had found a modern and effective way to do the age-old job. He only had to take them into the house at night.

After three days in the sun, the apples were ready to be brought in and placed in a cloth bag where the air could get through them and they were ready for winter use.

Mrs. Pyles had tried to remember exactly how she had seen her own mother make the pies. Recipes were not always used in those days. In fact, most women who were known as good cooks, never used a written recipe. Mrs. Pyles says she cooks "by guess and by gosh."

Soon the two had discovered that making fried pies is a "2-man operation." So while she prepared them for their stay in the pan of hot fat, Shorty fried them to a golden brown.

The couple has made the pies, which have become well known throughout the area, for more than four years now and friends can almost always find one when asked to have coffee at their house. Several have suggested that they do it commercially. "Oh no," Shorty often replies, "If anyone eats my fried pies they will do it with their feet under my table."

Mrs. Pyles is often heard to say to her friends, "Come on over to our house. I've got a stack of fried pies that you couldn't shake hands over." She usually has.

When asked for the recipe, she admits that she does not measure things as she prepares them but "I'll tell you as near as I can. You will just have to use your own judgment."

Granny's Fried, Dried Apple Pies

Pastry

1¼ cups cooking oil or shortening
3 ½ cups flour (approximately).
1 cup sweet milk.
1 teaspoon salt.

Mix according to your own method of mixing pie dough and roll a piece the size of an egg on the pastry board until it is about an eighth of an inch thick.

Place the dough on a 6-inch salad plate and add about three or four tablespoons of the fruit to one side of the dough. Turn the other half of the crust back over the filled side and crimp the edges together firmly. Be sure that there are no perforations where the fruit may leak out into the hot fat.

Mild Mannered Meat Loaf Is Made With Veal

Like a change-of-pace meat loaf? Light in color, mild in seasonings with salt, pepper and ground carrots, this entree is ideal.

When diets call for meals that are low in spicy condiments, a combination of veal and pork with sour cream answers the need in an appetizing manner, says Reba Staggs, meat authority with the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Sour Cream Veal Loaf

1½ pounds ground veal
½ pound ground pork
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 carrots, ground
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup dairy sour cream
Flour

Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pack into a 5 x 9-inch loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 1½ hours. Thicken drippings for gravy, allowing 2 tablespoons flour for each cup of drippings. 6 to 8 servings.

Have heating on the stove, a heavy skillet or roaster two thirds full of cooking oil or shortening. When the fat has reached 370 degrees (or about the temperature that you would use for French fries), place the prepared pies in the fat, never trying to fry more than two at a time. Allow to fry until agolden brown, remove from the fat and place to cool on a rack covered with several layers of paper towels. Pies should never be stacked until they are thoroughly cool. Stacking while hot will cause sogginess.

The apples for the pies are simply prepared by cooking the fruit until it is tender and juicy, draining off the excess juicy and adding about three cups of sugar to six cups of the cooked apples. Add a teaspoon of cinnamon. This amount of the fruit and pastry should make about 10 or 12 pies, depending upon the varying size of the plate they are prepared on and the amount of filling used for each one. A little practice is usually required in the handling and measuring to suit the individual taste.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — New Zealanders drank 24.3 gallons of beer per capita in 1968, reports the government statistician.

This compares with the 24.2 gallons in 1967 and 23.6 gallons in 1966.

The increase maintains New Zealand's position as one of the world's most vigorous beer-drinking nations.

Catfish Farm in Mississippi County Announced by Story

CHARLESTON -- An 80-acre catfish farm has been constructed on Route 77 one-fourth mile north of "34" Corner by A. L. "Bud" Story Jr.

Story plans to stock his eight lakes with fingerling channel catfish, and supply pay lake operators as far north as St. Louis county with 1½ to 2 pound fish. At present many of these lake owners must drive up to 350 miles into central Arkansas to obtain fish.

Most of the engineering on this project was done by the soil and water District Conservationist Bill Willis.

The layout calls for a 100-foot strip of land adjacent to Highway 77 which will serve as headquarters and a parking area. A ditch runs east and west the entire length of the field on the north side. This will carry water from the lakes to a roadside ditch in case of a drawdown of any of the eight lakes.

Next to the headquarters parking area are two lakes, each covering an area of 6.9 acres on either side of a central levee which bisects the 80-acre field east and west. Next to the 6.9 acre lakes are four lakes each containing 8.3 acres, and finally here are two 8-acre lakes on the west end of the project. Total water area will be 63 acres, and each of the ponds will have an average depth of 5½ feet.

The central levee is also the location of two 8-inch wells driven to a depth of 80 feet. This levee will be used to service all of the lakes, and also from it feed will be distributed to the eight lakes which adjoin it on each side.

Story hopes to have his first batch of fingerling fish in their new homes by July 1.

He has spent many hours reading up on catfish culture, and he has visited many "farms" in Arkansas, Mississippi and some in Texas.

The ponds will by stocked with fingerlings at the rate of 1,500 to 2,000 per acre. Barring unforeseen problems Story hopes to sell 1,500 pounds of fish per acre per year, and that compares very favorably with beef or pork production per acre.

"I figured I had to do something to supplement my farm income," he said. "We usually sell our produce - cotton, corn soybeans and wheat in a saturated market. Income continues to go down, and operating expenses continue to go up. In that situation something has to give, and after much careful study I've decided to catfish farming.

Recreation is one of the biggest if not the biggest industry in the country, he noted. "Pay fishing lakes are springing up everywhere, especially near the large cities. The market is practically unlimited.

"Furthermore, catfish are not like beef or pork which must be sent to market when the steer or hog reaches a given weight. If you can't sell to pay lake operators, catfish continue to grow at a profitable rate, and they can be disposed of on the market. He cited the opening of "catfish kitchens" all over the midwest, plus the fact that markets are beginning to offer fish fillets more or less regularly.

Mr. Story used his own farm equipment to build his ponds, thus cutting down on the cost of construction.

Deep well water contains very little oxygen. It is also high in iron content. Both problems, Mr. Story believes, will be solved by pumping the water over baffles to increase the oxygen content of the water, and to dissipate the iron.

The fish will be fed a high protein diet once each day by scattering two types of feed – floating feed and a water soluble feed near the banks.

Purple Martins Recruited to Aid Mosquito Control

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Army engineers have recruited purple martins for duty at Beaver REservoir in northwest Arkansas as part of a mosquito - control program.

Normally, the engineers spray recreation areas with an insecticide to control insects, but a lake official claims the purple martins will eat their weight in flying insects every day.

Four apartment-style purple martin houses have been installed along the shoreline of the lake. And, so far, the purple mosquito eaters have the situation well in hand, the official said.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PRESCRIPTION:

The investment behind it

Each year the drug industry invests millions of dollars in research to support the nearly one billion prescriptions filled yearly by pharmacists throughout the country. This investment results in new "wonder drugs" which let us live our lives longer, healthier. Of the 300 milion dollars invested last year more than 150 million dollars went for quality control research. Improved precision measuring and compounding instruments were developed to make even more certain you receive exactly what your doctor prescribes. And the investment also went for developing improved methods of production. As the methods of manufacturing improve, the price of the bulk drug decreases. This saving is passed on to you in lower prescription prices. The "gold pill" of yesterday is purchased today for a nominal amount. Thus, a conscientious, developing industry works to improve the service and quality of the pharmaceuticals you receive today and tomorrow.

For the highest pharmaceutical standards, low prices consistent with quality and the personal attention you can always depend upon, bring your prescriptions to

Seven Joint Committees to Conduct Legislative Studies

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Legislature has quit but not before creating seven new joint House-Senate interim study committees that are expected to do some work between now and Jan., 1971, when the 76th General Assembly convenes.

Each will have five members from both houses, instructed to investigate specific problems facing the state and make recommendations for new legislation to solve whatever problems are uncovered in the studies.

The committees that were authorized, and their assignments:

A recreation and water resources committee to look into water safety, tourism, recreation, water resources and methods of preserving Missouri's scenic rivers in their natural state.

Administration of law and justice—A committee to study the judicial system, the State Supreme Court, criminal laws on the books, the juvenile code and law enforcement.

Mobile homes — This group will try to come up with suggestions for new tax laws covering the assessment of mobile homes and mobile home developments. Health and zoning problems also will be studied.

Uniform consumer credit code —A lengthy, 134-page law that was introduced this session by Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, was considered too complicated to absorb in one session. This committee will review the code and current Missouri law and try to reconcile the two.

Intangible tax — This group will investigate charges that millions of dollars due the state in intangible taxes are lost every year. The 4 per cent tax applies to interest earned on savings and securities.

Rep. Charles S. Broomfield, D-Kansas City, who will probably head the committee, reported during the past session that 355 financial institutions in Missouri did not file returns in 1968. A majority of the state's 20,000 non-profit organizations, although subject to the tax, also failed to file.

Estimates of the amount lost each year by failure to collect the intangible tax ranged as high as $20 million.

Public and private aid sources—State agencies and political subdivisions receive an unknown amount of private and public money every year. This committee will try to identify the sources and amounts so the state can budget more accurately.

Tax exemption and revision—A study of current policy which exempts non-profit and religious organizations from taxes and an investigation of cooperatives and foundations.

Voters to Decide 7 Amendments

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri voters will get to voice their opinion on at least seven pieces of legislation enacted by the 75th General Assembly that collapsed at midnight Monday.

Of the 74 proposed constitutional amendments introduced since January, only seven survived.

At the next general election in 1970—or earlier if ordered by the governor—here is how voters will be asked to amend the state's charter:

To let the State Treasurer serve two consecutive four-year terms if elected by the people. Now he is limited to one term.

Let school district operating levies remain at their last approved level if a request for a higher levy is defeated by that district's voters, instead of reverting to the basic levy of $1.25 and perhaps resorting to halfday school sessions.

Voters also will get a chance to increase the basic school operating levy from $1.25 to $1.85. This would let districts boost the levy to $5.55 instead of $3.75 on a simple majority vote.

Another proposed constitutional change would let the State Highway Department use highway funds — motor fuel taxes—to finance bonds to build toll roads any place the commission deems feasible.

A toll road law was passed in 1967 by the General Assembly but the state's Supreme Court said last July the constitution prohibited using state funds for toll road purposes. If approved by the voters, the proposed change would get around that.

Whether to have annual legislative sessions also will be decided by the voters. The proposal would let the legislature have a six-month session in odd-numbered years—as it does now—and five months in even numbered years.

Now the legislature can meet only at the call of the governor during even-numbered years and then must adjourn within 60 days. When called by the governor it can consider only matters proposed by him.

The proposal would also provide cutoff dates for introduction of legislation and would let the legislature come back for 10 days to consider any measures vetoed by the chief executive.

Home rule for St. Louis County is another proposed constitutional change that will go on the ballot. It would let St. Louis County broaden its charter form of government but new services would first have to be approved by the voters in the county.

Judicial reform barely made its way to the ballot in the final hectic minutes of the session.

One of its main features would set up procedures for ousting judges for violations of oaths or other wrongful acts without having to go through impeachment proceedings in the House of Representatives.

It would provide a mandatory retirement age of 70 and strengthen the retirement system for judges.

It would, too, make changes in the jurisdiction of the state's Supreme Court and do away with the commissioner system in the state's appellate courts.

Commissioners now would not be removed but would be replaced as judges when their respective terms expire.

Another big change would make the present three appeals circuits regions and let the General Assembly create new regions as the need arose.

Rocky Leaves Argentina in State of Siege

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina was under a state of siege today as terrorism and labor unrest continued to shake the nation during Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's fact-finding visit for President Nixon.

The government broadcast the state of siege declaration Monday night, two hours before a 24-hour nationwide general strike was scheduled to begin in protest against the New York governor's visit and the policies of President Juan Carlos Ongania's military regime.

Rockefeller flew to Haiti this morning after 35 hours in Argentina and talks with Ongania during the fourth leg of his mission to Latin America.

The general strike was called by the strong antigovernment faction of the General Labor Confederation (CGT), headed by printers union President Raimundo Ongaro. Union sources said Ongaro was arrested Monday.

Police closed the labor organization's headquarters Monday night, and a police official said only that the government had "intervened."

Hours before, Augusto Vandor, leader of the moderate wing of the CGT, was killed in a daring daylight attack on his office in downtown Buenos Aires. Terrorists burst into the union headquarters, fired several machine gun bursts into Vandor's office and tossed a bomb through the door.

Vandor, 44, was secretarygeneral of the metal workers union and had refused to support the call for a general strike. His death was the 22nd in the six-week wave of antigovernment unrest that began when a student demonstrator was killed in Corrientes May 19.

Demonstrations first were aimed at "police repression," then developed into protests against the economic, political and social policies of the Ongania regime.

The current disorders are considered the most serious in Argentina since the 1955 revolution that toppled the dictatorship of Juan D. Peron.

The state of siege declaration was the first since security measures were lifted in October 1963 after 33 years of almost constant restriction.

There was no immediate indication of what security measures would be imposed. A ban on public meetings and demonstrations and permission for police to search without warrants were expected.

Windshield wiper blades should be replaced at least once a year, according to safety engineers of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. The blade rubber loses its effectiveness after being used from six months to a year because of the baking action of the sun, windburn, petroleum fumes from vehicles, dirt, smog and smoke.

Free Food Stamp Bill Dealt Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of a proposal to give free food stamps to impoverished families have lost a close fight in the Senate Agriculture Committee, but say they will carry the battle to the floor.

The committee rejected the proposal 7-5 Monday.

Supporters of the free food stamp proposal reportedly included Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D.; Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky.; Robert J. Dole, R-Kan.; Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., and James B. Allen D-Ala.

Talmadge had introduced a measure which would set $40 as the minimum monthly income at which the poor would have to pay to receive the stamps which can be traded for food at grocery stores.

This was only one of a stack of complex suggestions made to the committee which hopes to complete work this week on a bill to liberalize and broaden the food stamp program.

McGovern is cosponsor of a bill which would make free stamps available to families with monthly incomes less than $80.

President Nixon has proposed free food stamps for families with little or no income, roughly less than $30 a month.

The government in early March began an experimental program giving free food stamps to families with less than $30 monthly income in two South Carolina counties. This was a turnabout in a long-standing government policy which required some payment from any families receiving the stamps.

During the past year the Agriculture Department had reduced the requirements for the extremely poor so that a family of four could pay $2 a month and receive stamps for $58 worth of food. But on a national average food-stamp recipients in all eligible income ranges receive an average of $10 in coupons for $6.

States now set their own guidelines for determining eligibility for the stamps, but the Senate committee reportedly has agreed to change this by giving the Agriculture Department authority to specify the requirements.

The committee also was said to have recommended increasing federal food stamp financing from the present $340 million annually to $1.5 billion by 1971.

OLD GLORY WILL FLY ON THE 4TH OF JULY!

Most Americans love their country, support its constitution and honor its flag. This essence of the Spirit of '76 means just as much now as it did in those eventful years of our country. Only the times have changed. The thirst for freedom has grown and Old Glory is its most meaningful symbol in all the world. We believe its place is on every home on every national holiday. We also believe failure to fly a flag is due to no lack of patriotism . . . rather to inability to find a good home flag set easily at the moment its needed. For this reason we offer a top quality home flag set to our readers as a patriotic public service. It's easy to get. All you have to do is mail the coupon. Won't you join your neighbors in our flag crusade? Get your set now and fly it on every national holiday.

If You Were the Judge

Unclothed Patient is Legally Entitled For Admission

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

While Dorothy was lovely to look at she was a sight to see when she entered a private hospital complaining of pains in her stomach. Immediately, the doctors decided that her appendix had to come out. Her clothes were removed, she was handed a hospital gown and she was given some medication in anticipation of the grand opening.

Her benefactors, however, proved to be Indian givers. When the admitting office discovered that Dorothy couldn't get up the $200 admission fee, the hospital gown was taken back, she was handed her clothes and was sent on her way.

A second hospital proved more humanistic. They relieved Dorothy of her disconcerting appendix without any front money. And when she recovered, she sued the first hospital for not performing the operation in the first place and in making her suffer unbearable pain for five unnecessary hours.

"A hospital," she complained in court, "is supposed to be hospitable. I was thrown out like a tattered old rag."

"We're a private hospital," was the defense. "We don't have to admit anyone we choose not to. And since Dorothy didn't have the admitting fee, we exercised our option not to accept her."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the hospital pay Dorothy for not taking care for her?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! He held that while a private hospital may not be required to admit undesired patients, by taking Dorothy's clothes, giving her a hospital gown and administering medication to her, the hospital, both physically and legally, had admitted her. Having done so, it had a duty not to act unreasonably to having her removed from its premises. It could not throw her out while she was in pain and in need of treatment.

Dear Sir:

Citizens seriously opposed to communism and desiring to actively combat the menace have formed "TEAMS OF 2 TO 6" to promote causes. Two patriots start a TEAM to elect a Chairman who pledges members to deliver 20 minutes each week to make freedom workable. One agrees to spend 20 minutes on Monday, another Tuesday, and others each select one of the 4 succeeding weekdays, commending TV and radio stations and their advertisers for airing patriotic messages. Each member names an alternate, who may be a spouse. Members, on their chosen weekdays, phone 6 acquaintances suggesting they use the goods and services which advertisers offer on patriotic media. A "Spirit of Crusade" develops and the TEAM is organized in promoting patriotism. Each "TEAM OF 6" is a crusade of 2 hours weekly and a thousand TEAMs, 2,000 hours per week,which may decide an issue in a sizable city. 10,000 TEAMS, 20,000 hours, could sway a metropolis to the "truth side." Members may start or join as many as six other "TEAMS OF 6." Chairmen should keep contact with other chairmen.

Constructively,

Bias on On The Intellectual Boob Tube Not So Very Educational

By ERNEST THOMPSON
News Editor, Ada (Okla.)
Evening News

This is round number 1,226 of my running gun battle with the National Educational Television Network...

Ideally, educational television networks, subsidized by your taxes and mine, should present programs which are not commercially feasible - such things as concerts, lectures, operas, debates, great dramas, etc. NET has done some good work along the line, but I find that it consistently takes a slanted view (leftward tilt) in political affairs.

I recall one "educational" discussion that was so filled with loaded terms as to inspire this writer to kick the side of his television set. That was back during the campaign of '64.

It happened again last (September). NET, through its state channel (13), dropped in on the controversial H. L. Hunt, described by the TV Guide blurb sheet as possibly the wealthiest man in America who uses his money to further right-wing causes.

Now, I hold no particular brief for Mr. Hunt. I have met him and he seemed a nice sort of fellow. I have heard his LIFE LINE broadcasts and many of them did not seem nice at all. In fact, some of them turned my stomach. Others, I pretty much agreed with. But, Mr. Hunt is not particularly my favorite character.

That aside, I feel the treatment given him by NET was scandalous. To begin with, 50 percent of the questions were loaded, e.g., "Do you feel you are doing enough for Christianity?" Good grief.

But the clincher came when NET decided that the "other side" should be told. So, in trotted Charles Baxter and Franklin Littrell of the leftist Institute for American Democracy to rebut Mr. Hunt's political stances. Their innuendo- filled assault on Hunt, the city of Dallas and conservatives in general was disgusting. They even tried to tie in Hunt's "slanted" LIFE LINE program with the "mood of Dallas" at the time John F. Kennedy was shot. This to me, is the epitome of the pot calling the kettle black.

Now, I recall many instances of interviews on NET, ranging from far left to far right and in between. But, this is the first time I ever recall a team being called in to "tell the other side." For example, NET felt no compulsion to "give the other side" of the Drew Pearson story when that slander - monger appeared on the network. Is Mr. Hunt any more "irresponsible" than Mr. Pearson? The question is rhetorical.

Some liberals are so found of preaching fairness and so neglectful to practice it. The NET interviewer (make that read "interrogator") James Fleming, a last - minute replacement for Charles Connor, who is known to share at least some of Hunt's views, assigned all sorts of foul motives to the Texas millionarie's "propagandizing" over radio.

It evidently did not even occur to him to compare Hunt's methods to those of the Rockefellers, Fords, etc., who perpetuate foundations such as the Center for Study of Democratic Institutions and other leftist organizaitons. This latter activity, presumably, is philanthropic and egalitarian, while Mr. Hunt's doing the same thing on the other side of the issue is selfish and dangerous.

Did Mr. Hunt approve of Gen. Edwin Walker or the John Birch Society? Well, said the Texan, he disapproved of certain acts of the Birchers but he refused to issue a blanket condemnation of any group of persons. This is precisely what such groups as the American Civil Liberties Union and the Americans for Democratic Action have been preaching for years: To condemn in generalities is "McCarthyism," they say. Ah, but the show was on the other foot and it obviously pinched... thus, the double standard, and not for the first time.

I vigorously disapprove of my tax money being used in such a manner as it is used frequently on NET, whether or not I agree ith U.L. Hunt's philosophies and activities. And, I can't help wonder if some liberal (Hunt was constantly referred to as a "far rightist") millionaire devoted his funds to promulgating the leftist cause if he would be treated in the same manner as was Mr. Hunter. No, I am not that naive. I really don't wonder at all.

As long as we are leaning over backward to be "fair" to seditionists, such as Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael, and hoodlums, such as those who burn down our cities, it is curious to me to see this unrelenting attack on the "far right," which, for all its public exposure, cannot possibly, even with a dozen H. L. Hunts hope to affect with a massive electronic propaganda barrage the Liberal Establishment. That "establishment" has at its beck and call not mere millions of dollars, but billions.

And, we must remember, the "rightists" at least pay for their own air time, whereas, the "other side" is presented consistently as "public service" programming (translation: gratis advertisement), boosting everything from the Neighborhood Youth Corps to the USDA Extension Service.

Ogilvie to Sign Income Tax

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie planned to sign today a state income tax bill that will become effective Aug. 1 if upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court.

On that date, employers are to begin withholding 2 1/2 per cent from individuals' pay checks. Corporations will pay at a 4 per cent rate.

The House completed approval of the bill Monday night by a vote of 91 to 73 after three hours of debate in which Democrats charged that the Republican governor would be able to build a huge surplus in the state treasury.

Unless the levy is voided in court, Illinois will become the 38th state with an income tax.

In 1931, the legislature enacted a state income tax but it was thrown out a year later by the courts, primarily because the tax was graduated.

Pipeline Damaged in Storm

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Monsanto Co. officials estimated damage to a pipeline struck by two vessels driven downriver by Saturday night's violent storm at $300,000.

The steamer Becky Thatcher, with a replica of the historic Santa Maria moored alongside, was ripped away from its moorings by high winds.

Damage to the steamer, used as a floating restaurant, was estimated at $10,000, but the Santa Maria — purchased recently for $375,000 — may be a total loss.

Surtax Extension Wins Narrow Margin in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting after a last-minute plea from President Nixon and under strong pressure from leaders of both parties, the House has narrowly passed a bill to extend the income surtax.

The bill approved Monday 210-205, now goes to the Senate where leaders predict consideration may take three months.

Technically the 10 per cent surtax expired at midnight, only hours after the House action.

However, Congress already has voted to continue the withholding rates which include the surcharge through July, and the tax itself can later be extended retroactive to July 1. Senate leaders have said a further 60-day extension of the withholding rates probably will be sought.

Nixon wants the surtax to continue at a 10 per cent rate through December and then at 5 per cent until the end of next June.

Opposition to the bill has come mainly from congressmen who fear any chance for far reaching tax reforms will be lost if not included in the surtax extension measure. Just before the close of House debate Monday night, Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford read a letter from the President aimed at swaying such opponents.

"I want to remove any vestige of doubt as to the commitment of this administration to prompt and meaningful tax reform," Nixon said.

Earlier in the day Nixon met at the White House with 28 Republican congressmen, most of them opponents of the surtax extension. All but 10 of these ended up voting for the bill.

In all, Nixon got 154 House Republican votes while 26 GOP members opposed it.

House Democratic leaders gave strong support to the extension, but only 56 votes for the bill came from that side of the aisle. Opposed were 179 Democrats.

Joining Nixon and Ford in the heavy last-minute pressure for passage were House Speaker John W. McCormack, Democratic Leader Carl Albert, Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., and Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., who handled the measure. Boggs said could occur if inflation is not curbed soon.
